11th Plane Hijacked

MIAMI (AP)—A National Airlines DC8 with 63 persons aboard— including a stewardess who felt a hijacker's gun against her neck last Marchwas diverted to Cuba today by a pistol packing sky pirate.

Flight 44 from San Francisco to Miami with a stop scheduled at Tampa, was off the Louisiana coast when Capt. Charles Leeds radioed the news.

The plane, 11th of the year to be hijacked to Cuba, landed in Havana at 6:58 a.m. EST.

Aboard were 55 passengers and a crew of eight, including stewardess Donna Goldinher, who was grabbed by a hijacker last March 12 and forced to march to the cockpit with a gun at her neck. Three Cuban refugees later were charged.

When Leeds reported the hijacking today he said the plane was being hijacked by a "man with a gun at the head of the stewardess." It was not known whether the stewardess again was Miss Goldinher, a pretty, 26-year-old brunette.

"I am diverting to Havana, I have been hijacked," said Leeds. At the time his plane was about 67 miles southwest of Grand Isle, La.

Leaving the passengers in Havana - the normal procedure in hijackings to Cuba - the crew flew the DC8 back to Miami, landing at 11:30 a.m.

Other members of the crew were First Officer Wallace Pawley, Flight Engineer Clyde Roper and stewardesses Thelma Tarleton, Leanna J. Anderson, Pamela Klinger and Miss Goldinher.

Also aboard was William D. Stevens, an air traffic control specialist for the Federal Aviation Administration stationed at St. Petersburg. An NAL spokesman said Williams was aboard on a routine assignment to observe route procedure.

No member of the cast receives any compensation and all performance receipts go for travel expenses.

No Vacancies In Sikeston Schools

In a statement today Sikeston Supt. Lynn Twitty said there are no teacher vacancies at present.

The present salary scale is $5,300 for a starting teacher, and ranges upward to $7,400. The top salary is for a master's degree, with 30 hours additional credit, and with 14 years teaching experience.

Mr. Twitty added that many of the beginning teachers receive additional compensation for additional duties on th school campus.

Supt. Twitty further stated that "if the state legislature passes Senate Bill No. 1, teacher turnover would drop to a degree, as it would include salary increases. This salary increase would range from $500 to $700 per teacher."

AEC Says New Weapons Added

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission said today it has developed new and secret nonnuclear components for the nation's already fearsome weapons.

And the agency hinted the new developments may already have been tested in the continuing quest to improve the nation's nuclear arsenal.

The component-development disclosure came in one short paragraph of the AEC's annual report to Congress prepared for release today.

In the same report, the AEC made a new oblique reference to a conclusion voiced in 1966 by Congress' Joint Committee on Atomic Energy that China could be capable of launching a hydrogen-missile attack on the United States before the mid1970s and conceivably as early as 1971.

The indirect reference came when the AEC disclosed for the first time that it has set "late 1971" as the target date for full speed production in its program for providing "the new capability and increased capacity" for producing nuclear intercontinental ballistic missiles.

A key objective in this expansion program is sharply geared-up production of Spartan and Sprint missiles for the Sentinel system, a "thin" antiballistic missile system designed in part to cope with any early threat from Red China.

The AEC's reference to the development of new nonnuclear components for possible use in various kinds of atomic weapons came in this terse statement in a section of the report dealing with weapons development during the past year, including underground testing.

Lions Sign to Donate Eyes

The Lions Club at their noon meeting this week, gave a program on Eye Tissue Bank, of the University of Missouri at Columbia.

It was explained by members of the committee, Earl Cook and Raymond Wright.

The eye tissue program is the major program sponsored by the International Lions organization, whose members have been responsible for receiving thousands of eye tissue to hospitals all over the world, to be transplanted to persons who have had serious eye trouble.

The eye tissue program has had such a success, that a case is known where a tissue was given to a totally blind person, and after his death was willed to a second and third person.

Wright explained that hospital facilities for removal of eyeplants, in both operations and transportation, will now give the best of service. An eye tissue removal must be made within four to six hours after death.

Many members of the local Lions club, in the past three years, have offered eye tissue to the worldwide bank.

David Blount, a new florist in the city, was introduced to the members.

Search Continues For Fritts Youth

The search continues for 17-year-old Bennie Fritts, Kevil, Ky., who apparently drowned, when the car in which he was a passenger went into the Northcutt ditch Wednesday night on Interstate 57 a half mile east of I-55.

Two members of the Mississippi County Rescue Squad, Mike Bryant and Ronnie Chambers, spent several hours Thursday searching the channel in a boat, and with a steel bar and grappling hooks. They covered more than a mile downstream.

Another crew began this morning dragging the ditch farther south. The ditch runs into the Mississippi river at New Madrid.

Scott County Sheriff John Dennis and a number of deputies, as well as the father of the youth, John Fritts, assisted in the search.

The accident happened when the father lost control of his car while passing a large truck.

Huge Viet Red Base Uncovered

SAIGON (AP) — American air cavalrymen have uncovered a huge North Vietnamese base spread over four square miles northwest of Saigon. U.S. officers said they think it was being built in preparation for a winter-spring offensive.

The base is believed to be the largest ever uncovered in the war annd could accommodate perhaps 5,000 or more enemy troops. It contained hundreds of bunkers, a large underground hospital, dining halls, a bicycle repair shop, and a command post.

Troops of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division came on the base while on a sweep along jungle trails in the long-time Viet Cong stronghold known as War Zone C. The base was found some 53 miles northwest of Saigon nd 14 miles south of the Cambodian border.

Lt. Col. Frank Henry of Franklin, N.C., told AP photographer Rick Merron during a survey of the area that his troops had already counted 354 bunkers of various sizes and that he estimates there are 750 to 1,000 bunkers in the whole area.

"They've been doing a lot of work on this complex in the last month," Henry said. "We think they were preparing for the coming offensive down South," meaning attacks on U.S. and South Vietnamese installations closer to Saigon and possibly on the capital itself.

Merron flew over the area in a helicopter and said the triple-canopied jungle made it invisible from the air.

A captured North Vietnamese told the air cavalrymen that there was something in the area. He said he knew of a hospital but couldn't pinpoint it.

The air cavalrymen were turning up bunkers so fast that engineers called in to blow them up were hard put to keep up.

"This is an impossible job," said one engineer." It will take us weeks to blow them all up effectively."

"One of the bunkers had curtains in it; it must have been some wheel's bunker," said Capt. Henry A. Colavita of Arlington, Va.

The hospital complex "was brand new, still in he construction process at the time," said Colavita, but "we didn't see too many signs of recent use" in other parts of the bunker complex.

Colavita, commander of one of the two Air Cav companies searching the area, said his men also found enough enemy documents to fill two sandbags. Intelligence officers looked the documents over and said they indicated that the area was a "logistical supply center" for North Vietnamese troops.

The Americans said the only opposition they encourntered came from three North Vietnamese soldiers, all of whom were killed.

Little battlefield action was reported again today, but a 13-year-old girl and 19-year-old boy were killed in terrorist bombings on the northern edge of Saigon this morning. Authorities said 14 other girls were wounded when explosive charges attached to bicycles or motorcycles were set off in a parking lot outside a girl's school nd in a street in front of a nearby government center for Communist defectors.

Despite the lull in large - scale ground fighting, the U.S. Command indicated it thinks a Viet Cong threat is building up in the Mekong Delta near Can Tho, the biggest city in the rice bowl and the nerve center for military operations south of Saigon.

Thirty six U.S. B52 bombers dropped more than 1,000 tons of explosives on "concentrations of enemy troops in a base area and bunker complex west of Can Tho" between noon Thursday and noon today.

Fliers returning from one raid reported triggering 11 secondary explosions, indicating hits on ammunition stores.

The U.S. Command took the security wraps off another operation in the northern provinces, this one in the foothills 25 miles southwest of Da Nang.

I-55 Extension in Bid Call

Another section in the gradual extension of Interstate Highway 55 southward will be included in the Missouri State Highway Commission's bid call scheduled Feb. 14.

The commission reported I-55 will be extended southward 9.3 miles from its present terminus with Highway 61 south of Festus to the Ste. Genevieve County line.

The work will require grading, bridging, culverts, signing and two 24-foot wide concrete pavements.

A 361-foot plate girder underpass will be built at Highway 61, and a 368-foot continuous I-beam bridge will be erected over the Missouri-Illinois Railroad.

Twin 228-foot continuous plate girder bridges are to be erected over Plattin Creek, a 272-foot continuous I-beam structure over Highway 61, a 136-foot continuous I-beam structure over Isle DeBois Creek, a double 10-foot by 10-foot concrete box culvert at a branch of Muddy Creek, a 338-foot continuous plate girder underpass at Route AA, a triple 11-foot by 7-foot concrete box culvert at Saline Creek, a 252-foot continuous plate girder underpass at Danby Road, a 210-foot like underpass at Route TT and twin 201-foot continuous plate girder bridges over Isle DeBois Creek.

Another interstate project for which bids will be received is the substructure for the new Mississippi River bridge near Caruthersville. This project is approximately seven-tenths of a mile in length.

The bid call also includes the painting and cleaning of the Mississippi River bridge at Cape Girardeau.

The highway commission in announcing the call, said it is expected to total $42½ million, a record sum. The road work extends over 135 miles of highways in 22 counties.

Stoddard County Judge Opposes Court Expenditures

DEXTER — The controversy over the payment of part of the salary of the Circuit Judge by the county courts of Stoddard and Dunklin counties flared into the open this week when one of the Stoddard County Court members issued a signed statement, declaring that one of the county court members had "changed his mind" and would now vote 'yes' only after his son had been charged with a felony in the Circuit Court.

Jack Ward, Associated Judge from the County Court, First District, issued the signed statement, in which he charged that both Leffler Lee and Clyde Henson had changed their minds at the last minute on the proposal. Lee's son is now charged with a felony in the Stoddard County Circuit Court as a result of the recent gambling raid in Dexter.

Circuit Judge William H. Billings, who had not had an opportunity to read Ward's prepared statement, but who was aware of the controversy, said only that "any man who questions the integrity of this Circuit Court will find himself being asked by the Grand Jury to prove those charges."

The statement by Ward is as follows:

"TO THE PEOPLE OF STODDARD COUNTY—

"As you know, I have been opposed to the payment by the Stoddard County court of any of the salary of the Circuit Judge. The Circuit Judge's salary is set by law, paid by the state, and I have always felt that this was as it should be.

"But I was outvoted on this proposal when Judge Billings became our Circuit Judge, and the Stoddard County Court has contributed $1500 in additional salary for him. The Dunklin County Court has done the same.

"A few weeks ago, when this matter was again to be considered by the two county courts, both Leffler Lee and Judge Henson indicated to me that they were opposed to any further payments to the Judge, and said they would vote against it. Naturally I was pleased.

"But it seems strange to me, that since the son of one of our County Court Judges has been charged with a serious crime, Judge Lee has now indicated that he will vote "yes" for the additonal salary for the Judge. And Judge Henson has done likewise, saying that he might want a "personal favor" from the Circuit Judge one of these days and did not want to offend him now.

"As late as last Wednesday, a meeting of the county judges of Dunklin and Stoddard counties (six of us), met in Kennett. Out of the six, five indicated that they would vote "no" for any additional "tip" for the Circuit Judge, over and above his regular salary. The only person who did not say he would vote "no" was Leffler Lee, who had no comment and did not say how he would vote.

"I think the people of Stoddard County are entitled to know this information. I have been opposed to the additional "tip" for the Circuit Judge since it was started. I do not believe in it in principle.

"I do not question he honesty of the Circuit Court or the honesty of the Circuit Judge, but I believe the people have the right to know what is going on and how their tax money is going to be spent."

Record Number of Jurors

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Juror prospects came and went at a rapid rate in the Clay Shaw trial on a charge of conspiring to murder President John F. Kennedy.

"It already is a record for the city of New Orleans," said Criminal Dist. Court Judge Edward A. Haggerty. "No case in this city has ever interviewed so many prospective jurors."

Of 687 checked off in nine days of examinations, 11 willing survivors were in the jury box today, waiting for one more juror and two alternates to be found.

Having exhausted the venires of all eight sections of the court, Haggerty sent process servers hustling about the city Thursday night in an effort to summon 150 more prospects.

Sirhan Takes Stand Tuesday

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sirhan Bishara Sirhan's murder trial, after nearly four weeks of preliminaries, finally shows promise of some spark: The defendant takes the witness stand next Tuesday.

His appearance will be brief, chief defense attorney Grant B. Cooper told newsmen after announcing in court Thursday that Sirhan and his mother Mary will testify about their finances.

The judge has recessed the trial until Tuesday.

The slight, 24-year-old Jordanian is charged with murdering Sen. Robert F. Kennedy last June just after Kennedy won California's Democratic presidential primary.

Cooper contends Sirhan, "a poor man," was indicted by grand jurors of above-average means who, racially and otherwise, don't represent a community cross-section. A defense motion seeks to quash the indictment.

We have in hand the Hayti Missouri Herald of January 30th 1969 which has their city financial statement printed in full and in detail. This is what the city officials of Sikeston should do if they want to comply with the law.

Maybe we are wrong and that they don't care about complying with the law. Maybe they do not want the citizens to know how much money they receive and who gets it and for what.

You don't reckon they have a joker somewhere in the city's operation do you. We wonder.

HAS IT BEEN DECIDED?

Dr. John Weaver, president of the University of Missouri, said the other day that unless the school's budget requests are restored, a proposed new medical school at Kansas City cannot be started.

Governor Hearnes, commenting on the proposed medical school, noted that he wanted to have a proposed agreement with the City of Kansas City and Jackson County in final form before committing the state to a long-term expenditure for a new medical school on the western side of the state.

Judging from these two statements, it would appear as if Missouri is almost committed to the establishment of a second state - supported medical school, this one to be located in Kansas City.

As far as we know, the only two groups thus far giving approval to the medical school plan have been the Commission on Higher Education and the university's Board of Curators.

If that's all it takes to establish a multi - million - dollar medical school in Missouri, then we want to submit a request for a third state - supported school in the Bootheel.

We fell certain that Northeast Missouri might like to have such a state facility, and perhaps the Kirksville Chamber of Commerce would be interested in making application. Then, why not place one in Southwest Missouri, or perhaps a couple down there since both Springfield and Joplin are pretty fair sized cities.

We have stated our position on the proposed Kansas City medical school before: we're against it for a variety of reasons. We believe they are good reasons, and they range all the way from the fact that the state cannot afford such an institution to the fact that Missouri, if it wishes to train more doctors, can do the job much more economically by utilizing the private medical schools that are now struggling to remain in existence.

Perhaps we're wrong, but we kind of had the idea that the General Assembly might have something to say about the idea, and hopefully might say something sensible about the subject, such as "No."

We also like the statement made by state Sen. J. F. (Pat) Patterson of Caruthersville, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, who told Dr. Weaver the other day, "You're going to have trouble ever building another medical school until we have some indication it s going to do rural Missouri some good."

Sen. Patterson's warning gives us some reassurance, for we were beginning to think that everyone in the state was willing to buy this Kansas City Chamber of Commerce project without so much as a question.

APOLLO 8 BREAKS EARTH'S SHACKLES

Not since the assassination of John F. Kennedy and its aftermath have so many millions around the world been electronic eyewitnesses to one of the great unfolding dramas of human history.

Happily, not horror and anguish but pride and awe are the emotions connected with the flight of Apollo 8. Not despair of the sorry condition of man but renewed faith in what his brain and will can accomplish is its legacy. The only regret is that President Kennedy, who seven short years ago committed this nation to a landing on the moon, will not see American spacemen achieve that goal.

Apollo 8, of course, was not designed for a moon landing. Many obstacles remain to be overcome before that mission can be launched. But there can be no doubt now that one of man's oldest dreams is about to be realized, perhaps in only a few months. Unforeseen setbacks could delay it; nothing can prevent it.

Superlatives fail in any attempt to describe Apollo 8, not only in its broad scope but in all its technical details.

By this time, most Americans are familiar with the stupendous and unprecedented statistics associated with the Saturn V rocket, statistics that are about as mentally assimilable as the complexities of the national debt.

For instance, that each of its five main engines burned 9,000 pounds of fuel a second; that each of the eight retrorockets that separated the first stage from the rest of the vehicle generated more power than the Redstone rocket that boosted America's first tiny satellite into orbit in 1958; that the entire rocket contained 5.6 million individual parts - plus three more, the most previous of all; astronauts Borman, Lovell and Anders.

Even seeing was hardly believing. One moment, a 6-2 million - pound skyscraper was standing on a launch pad in Florida. The next, it was soaring off into the blue, shaking the earth and rattling windows hundreds of miles away.

There were all the complex and epic decisions that had to be made, the precise guidance and performance margins that had to be held. For instance, the spacecraft, initially spun out of earth orbit at 24,700 miles an hour, had to lead the moon's speed by a mere 68 miles an hour, or either crash into that onrushing mass or be deflected into helpless orbit around the sun.

And yet, when the moment came for the decision unique in history, the command snapped out in prosaic, space-age jargon: "You are go for TLI (Trans - Lunar Injection)."

Yes, "breaking the surly bonds of earth" is one of the ancient dreams of man, or at least of those men in each generation who dream grandiose dreams. But there is another, more ancient and more universal, dream that is symbolized each year at this time.

Some thought it inappropriate that Apollo 8 should be launched at Christmastime. It could not have been more appropriate.

The world's millions, focusing their thoughts and hopes on three men so far out in space, and seeing as they saw just how small and lonely this one-world really is amid the stars, have been given a message that is a reaffirmation of the one the heavens announced 2,000 years ago.

Merry Christmas from the moon, Peace on earth, good will to men.

It takes a rather long memory now to recall that great debacle -- the Depression of the 1930's--and some of the events that took place during that time. One of those events was the passage of a law known as the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935. Perhaps the most historically noteworthy feature of the Act was the "death sentence" provision which resulted in dozens of electric company systems being broken up into separate operating entities. In the atmosphere of the 30's when it was politically popular to castigate "big business" holding companies and often the men who headed them were dealt with harshly, the economics and efficiency of the holding company principle were submerged in acrimonious partisan debate.

After more than 30 years, evolution has gone full cycle. Public policy as represented by federal regulatory authority stresses the advantages of what now is called "power poolin" and interconnection of electric systems to achieve greater realibility of electric service. Rising costs brought on by inflation have made mergers in the investor-owned electric industry as inevitable as mergers in other industries. The economies that are possible through corporate affiliation are leading to what amounts to a rebirth of the holding company, and power consumers will be the primaary beneficiaries. The lesson seems to be that economic principles have a way of rising above the shifting winds of policitcs.

END IS THE SAME

There is a school of though among "consumer protectors" that would place stringent curbs on promotion and advertising on the theory that it would save consumers a few cents on their grocery bills.

A short time ago, a noted columnist of high repute observed, "At least four states have banned trading stamps in recent months..." The fact is, according to a spokesman for a major trading stamp company, "The only state which has banned the use of trading stamps by retailers is Kansas, and that state's law has been on the another point, the columnist observed, "On average, 2 cents out of each dollar you spend in a supermarket offering trading stamps goes strictly for the stamps.' To this the same trading stamp company spokesman replied, "Unquestionably, all of a retailer's costs are passed along to the consumer. But it is a distortion of the facts to imply...that 98 cents worth of groceries at a nonstamp store costs one dollar at a stamp store.'

We have only to look around us to find plenty of evidence that the free market, competitive economic system works -- and works better than any system that has heretofore been devised. Such things as a promotion and advertising are an integral part of that system -- a system that is closely interwoven into the whole fabric of political and economic liberty. For example, freedom of the press would be short-lived indeed if curbs were placed on the freedom of promotion and advertising. As has often been pointed out, freedom is indivisible. It can be destroyed in the name of controlling inflation just as surely as it can be destroyed by a dictator and the firing squad. The end is the same.

JUSTICE FOR OTTO OTEPKA?

The coming of a new administration in Washington has revived hopes that Justice will at last be done for Otto Otepka.

Otepka was a dedicated State Department officer, who placed service for his country above personal advancement. In 1960, as chief of evaulations in the Department's security office, he was asked to approve waivers of security checks on several new State Department appointees. When he insisted on following regulations, well aware that in the past, some extremely bad security risks had been appointed to important positions, he was harassed, demoted, and then fired in 1963.

Otepka immediately began to fight for reinstatement. Finally in January of 1968, a Senate committee issued a report which described "extraordinary, calculated harassment" of Otepka by top State Department officials. He was reinstated in the Department but received a harsh reprimand and was not allowed to perform any security duties.

Otepka realized that his victory would be hollow if he was not restored to his former position in the security office and planned an appeal to the federal courts.

This appeal would not be necessary if the Nixon administration recognizes the need for this kind of security officer and reinstates Otepka in his former position. During his campaign, Mr. Nixon indicated tha he knew the importance of tight security in the State Department and promised to "clean house" there.

Mr. Nixon has referred to Otto Otepka as a man "who has served his country so long and so well." Patriots should hope that this dedicated public servant will be reinstated in the position where he can continue this service to his country. HLH

NEW YORK (AP) —Curbstone comments of a Pavement Plato:

You're not in step with the times today unless you have a furrowed brow from worrying about the so-called "generation gap."

This is one of those wrap-up sociological terms, such as "meaningful dialogue," which have become so common in our society lately, phrases which bloom madly in cocktail party conversations for a few months or perhaps years, then die out.

Perhaps, however, before both these currently popular phrases go out of style and depart into the limbo of language, we should hold a "meaningful dialogue" on the "generation gap." Just what is that gap? It refers to the deepening gulf— oops, there's another one of those cozy intellectual terms— between America's young and its middle-aged.

One might dismiss this gap tolerantly as a mere matter of a difference in age, and let it go at that. After all, girls and women, separated by 25 years, don't usually go to pajama parties together; men separated by 25 years don't usually play handball or tennis together.

Youth naturally tends to flock with youth, those in their middle years with others in their middle years.

But the present generation gap goes beyond the normal gap which historically has separated all previous generations from one another. The gap is deeper, wider, and reflects a bitter emotional estrangement more than a mere difference in age.

Every generation is something of a mystery to the one that it follows and the one that it precedes. But customarily the estrangement is the result of friendly misunderstandings and there are areas of reconciliation and avenues that lead to mutual acceptance.

The danger of the present generation gap is that there appear to be fewer touching points of agreement than existed in the past. Today's youth seems to regard the middle-aged not as misunderstanding friends but as actual or potential enemies, relics of an outworn social system who seek not to help them but to crush them. Their nowtrite slogan eloquently voices this suspicion: "Don't trust anybody over 30."

This slogan is peculiarly annoying to a modern father. He doesn't feel he is inviting his son or daughter to dwell in a rusting rut but to a better way of life he himself did not know when young. He is bewildered by the repudiation of his own values by his own children.

Scarred by a great depression and a great world war, he graduated from school or college into a world that had no job waiting for him and appeared to be indifferent to his welfare. Therefore he puts a high premium now on comfort and security, which he has achieved after hard, struggling years.

But his son today, with a job waiting for him and a welcome mat spread for him by the world, often doesn't want either that job or to dwell in that world as it stands.

"What do the kids of today really want then?" many a puzzled, frustrated, despairing parent asks.

The rebelling youth of today don't seem to know either. If they know their real aims, they are unable to state them clearly. Do they merely want to tear down what exists and blindly trust that something better will, without plan, inevitably arise? To the middle-aged such an attitude is a gamble in ignorance, a gamble doomed to failure.

There the generation gap stands now, and if anyone knows a sure way to end that gap by building fresh bonds of trust and affection between the generations he has yet to express it in a "a meaningful dialogue."

Washington - Merry Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson say: Peru woos USSR as backstop against U.S. retaliation; crime reports warn assassination could become way of life; presidential assassins follow a pattern

WASHINGTON--The Government of Peru, which hasn't had diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia for years, is now frantically pulling wires to patch up diplomatic relations. The motive is to be able to jockey the USA off against the USSR following Peruvian seizure of American oil properties and possibly copper companies.

The new Nixon administration, which hasn't yet been able to find an Assistant Secretary of State to handle latin American affairs, has until April 9 to patch things up.

After April 9 the fat will be in the fire, and you may see the first country on the South American continent--Peru--go the way of Fidel Castro.

April 9 is the date on which it is mandatory under the Hickenlooper Amendment to cut off the Peruvian sugar quota and all aid to Peru in retaliation for the seizure of the International Petroleum company by the Peruvian military.

The military have been armed by the United States and many of them trained in American military schools in the past. However, they constitute the most serious threat to U.S.-Peruvian relations in a century. Some of the young officers have been studying the doctrines of Mao Tse-Tung and Fidel Castro. They are vehemently Anti-American.

Note 1--It was a previous Republican administration under Eisenhower which let Cuba slip into the hands of Castro by too much hand-sitting. While the Cuban revolution drifted from bad to worse, the State Department under John Foster dulles did nothing.

Note 2--Peru has sent a first class diplomat, Fernando Berkemyer, to Washington as ambassador to try to appease the situation. Berkemeyer long served as ambassador in Washington, and single-handed negotiated the sugar quota which Peru now enjoys. He shunned the lobbyists hired by other countries. Today, however, in view of rapidly escalating poltical events and the do-nothingism of the new administration, he is helpless.

--Assassination Study--

The national commission on the cause and prevention of violence has been studying the 81 assassination attempts on the lives of American presidents and prominent office-holders and has concluded that assassination may be becoming a way of life in the United States.

The commission discovered that "presidential assassins appear to have much in common.

"Of the nine persons who made the eight assassination attempts (on presidents)," the report observes, "all were caucasian males, smaller than average in stature, and obsessed with some cause of grievance that appears to be almost delusional.

"Except for John Wilkes Booth, all were virtually unknown; five were born abroad but were U.S. citizens at the time of the attacks; and four had tried marriage only to fail within a short period. The socio-economic status of seven deteriorated during the year prior to the assassination attempt. All used firearms, and all but one used handguns, in their attacks. Thus evidence suggests that presidential assassins may fit a psychological pattern."

"The experience of other nations suggests that once assassination becomes part of a nation's political culture its eradication may be extremely difficult," warns the unpublished crime report. "The tragic murders of several national leaders in recent years have made Americans painfully aware of the vulnerability of prominent figures and have raised fears that the United States may face growing threat of political assassination.

"As several of our presidents have observed," the report continues, "it is difficult to prevent a determined assassin from killing a president, particularly when a mentally disturbed social isolate acts alone to avenge some real or imagined wrong."

The commission believes, however, that the presidential risk can be reduced by throwing obstacles in the way of possible assasins.

"It may be," suggests the report, "that presidential assassins are not nearly so determined to carry out their attacks as has been commonly supposed. Zangara would not leave the warm climate of Flordia to carry out his plan to assassinate

President Hoover; Shrank chose not to attempt assassination in Chicago in order to protect the city's reputation; and Guiteau postponed his attempt to kill President Garfield because the president's wife was present. Efforts to increase the difficulty of attacking a president may therefore yield significant results even though they will not deter the strongly determined assassin.

There also appears to be a political pattern behind the assassination trend.

"Several groups in our society," warns the report, "are impatient for, or threatened by, rapid social change. They tend to see the government as indifferent to their needs and even as punitive towards them. The members of such groups are generally of lower socio-economic status than the rest of society.

"The task force is studying such groups--both black and white--and is paying particular attention to those who might be said to be part of a 'white ghetto.' The national advisory commission on rural poverty has concluded that substantial numbers of white rural Americans are living in a state of poverty and cultural deprivation comparable to that experienced by many black americans; a similar conclusion might be warranted for some white urban residents. It is from these 'white ghettos' that many extremist and racist organizations such as the Ku Klux Klan recruit their members."

Meanwhile, the commission is continuing its study "to illuminate the fundamental reasons why individuals and groups choose violence against prominent persons as the means of solving their political or personal problems.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

1969's Newest Twist:

Teamsters Talk of Rushing for Guaranteed Lifetime Jobs

Washington, D.C.: -- As Jimmy Hoffa rounds out the second year of his prison industries mattress-making career in the Lewisburg penitentiary, his colleagues in the freer world develop new daring concepts, now that the Teamsters Brotherhood has reached the 2.1 million-member mark without his help.

Not that they've changed their habits or habitat -- they have just held their high command session in Flordia -- but they are adding intellectuals and new dimensions to their old coffers of money and muscle.

To prove that there can be something new uder the collective bargaining sun, Teamsters leaders now are discussing the concept of a "guaranteed working lifetime wage."

There has been the guaranteed work day and work week, and there is the spreading guaranteed working annual wage. But not to my recollection has any influential labor man, or bloc of labor leaders, suggested a guaranteed lifetime job.

It is odd that this concept should come from a massive union which would rather fight than switch from traditional table pounding. But come it did from one of its officials, a newcomer to the naional labor front, a tall, husky, tanned Southerner who sometimes has the mien and oratory of a preacher and sometimes the camaraderie a golf course pro.

Arriving as he does to the Teamsters national marble hall here in the post-Hoffa era, he is virtually as anonymous inside the Brotherhood as outside.

He is Weldon L. Mathis, now administrative assistant to acting president, General Vice President Frank (Fitz) Fitzsimmons. The Hoffa stand-in found Mathis in Atlanta and cottoned to him. Since then, he has become the Brotherhood's intellectual in residence.

Some weeks ago Mathis represented the Teamsters at a federal collective bargaining indoctrination seminar in Atlanta. It is there that he spoke of guaranteeing a man his job for life as the challenges to automation.

There may be similar paternal concepts in Latin America and other foreign labor laws. Some latin nations guarantee a worker he will be kept on for life if he survives the tests of the first 10 years of his employment.

But this is by statute -- not by force of contract bargaining. The nearest move toward this in the U.S. is the guaranteed annual wage. The United Auto Workers now have a complex system which guaranteeds a laid-off worker a full year's pay.

Already there is concern over who will receive such a guarantee -- the man with the lowest seniority or the older worker who says, why should I stay on the assembly line when Joe Smith, who has been working here 10 or 15 years less than I have, gets paid a full year for not working?

A similar system of supplementary unemployment benefits virtually guarantees a year's income to a laid-off steel worker. Now most of the Atlantic Coast longshoremen will be guaranteed pay for 2080 hours a year (40 hours a week for 52 weeks) whether they work or not.

Now the Teamsters thesis, developed during the first days of the new year, will become the newest of conversation pieces during 1969 and bargaining gambits in swiftly succeeding years -- just as did the once scoffed at "GAW" -- guaranteed annual wage.

"We may have reached the point," said Mathis, "where unions must demand that the job of the worker be guaranteed, a point where attrition is not merely a consideration of new equipment and new methods.

"The auto workers have reached the mecca of the guaranteed annual wage. Cannot we suspect we have reached the point where we must negotiate something equivalent to a guaranteed working lifetime wage?"

Then referring to the basic issue of the longshoremen's conflict, Mathis philosophized:

"While unions generally and with rare exceptions have gone along with automation and technological advance...perhaps we are now operating in a new environment which is simply a moment of truth."

True, it is early in this dialogue. True, this is the concept of one union -- but it is a gargantuan one, seeking its place in the community of respectability. It can begin its push anywhere -- in a small transfer terminal, a service shop or a warehouse.

Then it can flashfire to the big haulers and their sprawling over-the-road Van fleets.

Mark the earliest days of 1969 as the days of the beginning of the push for lifetime guaranteed jobs.

The Work Of The Church In Evangelism.

It has been God's plan from eternity to save the world through preaching the gospel. Every man is in need of salvation. (Rom. 3:9-10:23). The gospel of Christ is God's power to save. (Rom. 1:16; James 1:21). The church is God's agency in this work of preaching the gospel, to the lost. It is compared to a householder who goes out to hire laborers into the vineyard; and also is said to be the pillar and ground of the truth. (Matt. 20:1-16; 1 Tim. 3:14-15).

God's plans in this work of evangelism, does not include the activating of the universal church. Rather, local congregations were the only organization through which this work of the church was done in New Testament days. The church at Thessalonica and Philippi, were examples to other churches, and became outstanding in this work of evangelism. And these not only acted independently, but sent directly to Paul on the mission field, and nor through a human organization or even another church. (1 Thess. 1:3-8; Phil. 1:3-5; 2:25-30; 4:14-20; 2 Cor. 11:8-9). Study carefully the above scriptures. And these serve as approved examples of how the church does the work of evangelism, and certainly is a pattern for us to follow today. No church did its work, either evangelism or benevolence, through either a human organization or another church. And thus, human organizations, to do any work for the church, is not only nnecessary but violates these Bible principles. Antioch, Corinth, and the churches of Macedonia, each made up their own contribution, selected their own messenger or messengers, and sent directly to Jerusalem; when this church was in need. (Acts 11:27-30; 1 Cor. 16:1-3; 2 Cor. 8:2; 8:19-23). Note: Philippi was one of the Macedonian churches yet acted indepently in contributing to Paul through her own messenger Epaphroditus. (Phil. 4:14-18).

The church is the only organization designed by the wisdom of God, from eternity, for the work of evangelism. And because of its eternal design we know that God precluded and excluded any other arrangement of man's. If not why didn't Paul in the revelation given to him make known, to us another arrangement that, when we read we can understand God's will in the matter? (Eph. 3:1-4). God planned the church from eternity to manifest His wisdom, and it is to hold forth the word of life, to the best of its ability as a local congregation of Christians. (Eph. 3:8-11; Phil. 2:12-15). The church has fellowship with the preacher in the "furtherance of the gospel," and thus, fruit abounds to the account of the congregation. (Phil. 1:5; 4:18). Any substitute order or additional order for such work arranged by the will and wisdom of men would be a rejection of God's ways.

Crusades Planned

National Baptists, General Baptists, and Southern Baptists of this area will be engaged in evangelistic crusades in March and April of 1969. These Crusades will be promoted under the general banner, "The Crusade of the Americas." National, General and Southern Baptist bodies are a part of 42 Conventions, Unions, and Associations in North, Central, and South Americas engaged in one of the greatest evangelistic and missionary efforts in the Western Hemiphere and probably one of the greatest to be witnessed in the world. Over 25 million Baptists, directly or indirectly, will be involved.

The Crusade of the Americas was born in Brazil. In the state of Sao Paulo, Brazil in 1963 a great revival of national scope was witnessed, resulting in 42,000 converts and 500 new churches established in two years. The spirit behind this revival was that of Dr. Ruben Lopes. The Crusade of the Americas was conceived by him. He is a native Brazilian, pastor of the Vila Marianna Baptist Church of Sao Paulo and president of the Brazilian Baptist Convention for the tenth time.

In 1965 Dr. Lopes visited various Baptist bodies in their conventions and challenged them with a Crusade of the Americas. He presented the same challenge to the Baptist World Alliance and again won approval. The various Baptist bodies in North America have planned the Crusade in their own way. A Continental Congress on Evangelism was held in Washington D. C. in October of 1968. Many of the local churches in this area affiliated with National Baptists, General Baptists, and Southern Baptists will conduct their crusades within or near the suggested dates March 16-30, 1969. Other cooperating bodies are: Baptist Federation of Canada, Baptist General Conference, General Association of Regular Baptists, North American Baptist General Conference, and Seventh Day Baptist General Conference.

Birthday Luncheon

Mrs. Lela Beason was hostess for a birthday luncheon in honor of Mrs. Ruth Hall.

Those attending were Mrs. Estalee Stovers, Mrs. Bennie Walker, Mrs. Margaret Clifford, and Nola Cantrell.

The world's largest building was completed in 1966, says The World Almanac. The huge structure, part of the NASA space program and located near Cape Kennedy in Florida, is called the Vehicle Assembly Building (VAB). It has an enclosed area of 129 million cubic feet—almost as large as the combined volume of the Pentagon and the Chicago Merchandise Mart. Its fire-protection system requires a reservoir of one million gallons. Completely air-conditioned it has doors so large that a 40-story building could pass through them.

Sexy Singers Sing, Play

BY BARBARA LACY

Charley Bailey, the French equivalent to the boy-next-door with a good natured grin and glasses, and his seven sexy singers gave Sikeston concert goers their best entertainment of the season. From the opening "Jois de Vivre" to the concluding encore, they never lost the audience. Their songs were unusual, fast paced, and cleverly staged. A listeners' knowledge of French would have been helpful, but the Frenchmen with their gestures made translations unnecessary. They mimicked, they haromized, they sang and played a variety of instruments, piano, guitar, saxaphone, flute.

They wore hats, carried towels, played cards on the streets of Paris. The audience of 200 was fascinated.

Their "homage to a great man," the one reverant spot on the program was a delightful blend of Walt Disney'S lightest tunes done solumnly in French and ending with a moment of darkness "Good Night Mr. Disney," "Bon Suit, Monsieur Disney."

At the end, after a standing ovation and an encore, the audience remained seated. They were polite enough not to demand a surly tired singing group to sing some more; but they didn't want to leave.

Cocktail Necklines Not Appropriate for School

Dear Ann Landers: I've been dating Joyce for six weeks. She's attractive, not educated, but she really knows how to make a guy feel important.

On our third date Joyce told me she had been in a detention home for picking up items in a department store. Last week we visited my brother in the hospital. The next day the nurse called to ask if I had taken Hal's watch "for safekeeping." It was on his night table and now they can't find it.

Last night when I got home from a date with Joyce, my wallet was missing I'm not concernedabout the $40. It's the credit cards and driver's license I need.

I could fall in love with Joyce if I let myself go. So far we've just exchanged a few kisses. I hate to think what I'm thinking. Any advice? — NO I.D.

Dear No: If you've been exchanging kisses with this girl I suggest you count your teeth. Joyce is either a kleptomaniac or a thief, probably the latter, since kleptomaniacs steal items they have no use for. Before you propose, I hope you will consider what life would be like for the kiddies when their mother is in the klink.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 15 and already 38-24-38. My aunt gives me her nice clothes when she gets tired of them. In the last batch was a beautiful cocktail sweater. I took off the beads and it looks great. The only thing is, Ann, the sweater is cut sort of low. It's not too tight and I am careful not to bend over, but like I said, it has a low neckline.

I wore the sweater to schoo last week and two of my best friends said it looked "cheap." I don't know if they are jealous or if they said it for my own good. It's a very expensive sweater and I'd like to keep wearing it, but I don't want to wreck my reputation. Can you advise me? — JACKPOT JANE

Dear Jackpot: Wear a white blouse under the sweater and you'll even be able to bend over if you want to. Cocktail necklines are not appropriate for school.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a girl, 16, not beautiful but better than average looking. Everyone says I have a nice personality. The trouble is I don't get asked out because I live in a dump. This neighborhood is so crummy you can't believe it.

Several guys at school seem to like me but the minute I give them my address they disappear forever. Mom and Dad are divorced and we have troubled paying the rent, so please don't tell me we should move. I know we should but we can't afford to. Just tell me what a girl is supposed to do when she can't get dates because she lives in a slum. — CHICKEN POX

Dear Chicken: Many a gal who lives in a swanky suburb has given her address to a boy and never heard from him again. Boys are interested in good company and they'll lgo any place to date a girl who is appealing. The problem is you, Toos, not your address. Take inventory and find out what's missing.

Do you feel ill at ease...out of it? Is everybody having a good time but you? Write for Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dogs Battle Tigers For Mules Title

POPLAR BLUFF — It'll be top seeded Sikeston and unseeded but upset minded Nellyville battling for the championship of the 17th annual Poplar Bluff invitational tournament title here tonight at 8:30 p.m. The game is to be preceeded by the consolation match that finds Poplar Bluff facing Charleston, game time is 7 p.m.

Sikeston lived up to its pre-tourney rating as it moved into the final, turning back host Poplar Bluff 46-36 last night behind the 16 point effort of guard Dennis Snelling.

Neelyville posted its second upset in two night's of action as it muscled its way past defending tournament champion Charleston, 74-58.

Coach N. P. McDaniel's crew connected on 14 of 28 free throws and out-rebounded the Mules as it headed to the finals, gaining its biggest lead in the second quarter when it out-scored the host, 13-5 for a 26-15 half time lead.

Steve Fowler scored half of the hosts' points connecting on eight field goals and two free throws for 18 points.

Neelyville used a tough defense and accurate shooting to start each half as it ended Charleston's hopes of claiming its third straight title.

Coach Charles Moffitt's Tigers opened the first half with a 22-7 first quarter lead, but found the Bluejays of coach Gary Wadlington knocking at the lead at half, 35-32.

The Tigers opened the second half in almost the same fashion as it did the first, out-scoring the jay 23-8, this time checking them in the final period for the victory.

Roy Fields had 30 points and 20 rebounds for the Tigers while Henry Hall scored 14 for the Jays top effort on offense.

Tonight's finals pit the district's top two centers, Sikeston's 6-5 Fred Towns and Neelyville's 6-5 Roy Fields in a rebounding and scoring battle as the two squads meet for top honors.

GIVE

In memory of Robert Y. Dixon, Jr. of Sikeston, friends may make donations to the Cancer Research Center in Columbia, Missouri.

Mr. Dixon died of cancer on Jan. 25, 1969 after a long and difficult battle against this incurable disease. He was given the very best of medical care and was the recipient of the wealth of medical knowledge concerning his disease.

Through research, some doors have been unlocked and some forms of cancer have become understood and conquered. Still many doors remain closed -- research and dedication will prove to be the keys to those doors. We are hopeful that, through our donations in memory of Bob, dedicated men and women will come closer to finding a way to end the suffering of other fine people who become victims of cancer.

Funds may be made payable to the Cancer Research Center; Robert Dixon Memorial and sent to Box 909 in Sikeston. Recognition of donations will be made to both donor and to the members of the Dixon family.

Another Question Of Sight

COVENTRY, England (AP) — This city—historically involved in a big sight hassle 900 years ago when the original Peeping Tom stole a squint at Lady Godiva—is again involved in a question of vision.

This time the issue is not over a nude lady riding horseback through Coventry's market place, but the color of the municipality's fire engines that almost daily race over Her Ladyship's original route.

Despite clanging bells and the fiery red with which the city's fire trucks have been daubed, car drivers and other citizens are having trouble in spotting them.

This has resulted in delays in getting to fires, traffic tieups and even collisions.

Finally, Coventry's chief Fire Office, A.A. Leese, blew the whistle and asked the Lanchester College of Technology to put to scientific test which color is the most arresting.

After sweating over hot spectroscopes for a year, the experts informed the fire department that red was not the perfect color for fire engines.

"Yellow," said the technocrats, "is the most psychologically unpleasant color of the spectrum to the human eye."

Being the most unpleasant, it is the most arresting.

Mizzou Meets Nebraska Saturday

COLUMBIA — "If we're going to declare ourselves in the race, this is it.

Coach Norm Stewart of Missouri isn't one to over-stress objectives. He's challenging his own ball-club, now 2-2 in conference outings, with the proposition they face in meeting Nebraska in Lincoln this Saturday night.

Coming off that game, the Missourians take on Colorado's front-runners here in Brewer field house on Monday night.

Against the Huskers, Ol' Mizzou should be buoyed by two recent league wins over Kansas and Iowa State -- both in Columbia. Nebraska, meantime, is winless in he Big Eight with four setbacks.

However, the Tigers can expect all kinds of pitfalls in the Coliseum -- especially after dropping a Big Eight tournament decision to Coach Joe Cipriano's gang. Nebraska whipped Mizzou, 76-70, at Kansas City.

Size could be a Tiger bugaboo in the upcoming weekend which will determine Missouri's role in the Big Eight derby. Nebraska's Jim Brooks (6-8) and Leroy Chalk (6-7) are tough customers around the basket, offensively and defensively.

Colorado's giants are led by 7-ft. 2 Ron Smith, but the Buffs-- rated No. 17 nationally -- have a couple of 6-10 backup men as reserves -- and all-purpose Cliff Meely at 6-7. The Buffaloes take a 14-2 record overall, and 4-0 in league play, on their road trip to Lawrence and Columbia.

"It's a crucial trip for Colorado, too," Stewart points out. "If they can win both games, they will be sitting pretty, with just three road games left."

Missouri shows a 9-6 record, while the Nebraskans are 7-9 for all games.

Co-leaders of the Tiger attack are Don Tomlinson and backliner Dave Pike. Tomlinson in averaging 17 points a game, and Pike 13.1. As a team, the Black and Gold is shooting 48.7 percent from the field, best in Tiger annals.

Former U.S. Open champions Jack Fleck, Tommy Bolt and Gene Littler failed to qualify for the last 36 holes of the recent championship. Fleck and Bolt missed by one shot with 149s. Littler missed by three with 151.

Matthews Seek Third Straight New Madrid County Title

GIDEON — Matthews goes after its third straight New Madrid County tournament title tonight at 8 p.m. when it battles host Gideon, as both teams lived up to its pre-tourney ratings. The game is to be preceeded by the consolation battle that finds Portageville and Lilbourn battling, beginning at 6:30.

Sharp passing and a display of accurate shooting last night sparked Matthews into the finals as it toppled Portageville 59-52, after which Gideon showed its rebounding strength and shooting ability in beating Lilbourn, 62-51.

Coach Dale Harrison's Bulldogs led only once in its battle with the defending tournament champs, as it took a 2-0 lead on Kirk Stewart's 16 foot shot to open the game but found itself down 12-4 three minutes later and was never able to overtake the quick Pirates.

Matthews had somewhat better success against the Bulldogs zone defense than New Madrid had Tuesday night as the Pirates moved the ball quickly and hit the open man for numerous layins during the first half.

The Pirates held its biggest lead of the game with 3:34 remaining in the game, 51-34 to only see the Dogs press and close to within seven points with a minute to go, but Portageville was forced to go after the ball and kept the Pirates at the charity line that final minute as they took a 59-52 victory.

Coach Jim Hart got his biggest all-out effort from 6-5 center, Steve McElyea, who harrassed the Bulldogs offense under the basket with his defelection of shots while being credited with nine assists, 14 rebounds and 18 points, high for both teams. He dumped in key baskets early and late in he game when the Dogs made their threats.

Kirk Stewart was Portageville's top scorer on the evening with 13 points.

Gideon proved its earlier win over the Lilbourn Panthers no fluke and its number too seed deserving as it soundly beat the district's seventh rated quintet, 62-51.

The Bulldogs of coach John Shock took an advantage in every catagory of the game except for mistakes as his team seems to have its stride since the Bloomfield Invitational at Christmas, where it lost to Malden.

Shock's crew had a good eye for the basket during the evening as the team cashed in 80 per cent of its free throws (20 of 25) and warmed the nets with its 60 per cent field shooting (21 of 35) while Lilbourn struggled to fined the range throughout the evening against the tough Bulldog zone defense.

"We haven't played but one good game since Christmas," stated Panther coach Ted Mauk. "Our team looked good against Sikeston, but I think it was just because of the Bulldogs rating among Southeast Missouri teams and it being a large school." Mauk silently relented.

Gideon opened the game on top as Jerry Coleman sank two free throws and quickly moved out after Lilbourn held one point leads three times during the first four minutes of the game, before the Dogs headed for the first quarter break with a 16-10 lead.

Lilbourn never got no closer than six points after the first quarter as Coleman ripped the Panthers man to man defense with his patented fall away jump shot and wheeled around Panther defenders for easy layins, ending the game with 25 points, for game high honors.

The Panthers trailed 48-42 with 5:43 remaining in the game as Larry Wolfe connected on a 20-f oot set shot, but the Lilbourn quintet couldn't make the best of its change to close to within four as Gideon stole the ball after the Panthers took the rebound and headed down floor.

Ruben Marsh, the Panthers big 6-7 center failed to start and didn't see action until the second quarter. He played the final 24 minutes for Lilbourn, scoring 19 points for the teams best effort. The team trailed 16-10 after the first quarter and his appearance seemed to do little to lift the Panthers from that deficit as it was Gideon all the way.

Wash. At Cape

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Washington University of St. Louis invades Houck Fieldhouse at 8 Saturday night (Feb. 1) for a non-conference game with hapless Southeast Missouri State.

The Battling Bears will find that Coach Charles Parsley's squad of "10 little Indians" has increased by two. The beginning of the spring semester Wednesday at Southeast Missouri made two more players eligible for varsity competition.

They are Jim Long, a 5-11 guard who transferred from Paducah, Ky., Junior College, and John Stuhlman, a 6-4 sophomore forward from St. Louis who was ineligible the first semester because of scholastic difficulties.

Probably neither Long nor Stuhlman will break into the starting lineup Saturday night, but each is expected to see plenth of action. "They should definitely help us," said Coach Parsley, whose cagers can use any help they can get. Their record is now 3-12 after road loses on Saturday and Monday to Northeast Missouri State.

Washington University, coached by Bob Greenwood, had a losing season last year, as did Cape, but has rebounded in much better fashion than the Indians. The Bears returned their entire team, and four starters are currently averaging in double figures.

Greenwood's club also features one of the smallest guards in college basketball in 5-8 freshman Bruce Holloway from Poplar Bluff. He doesn't shoot often, but is the team's top playmaker.

Southeast Missouri is led in scoring by junior Fred Anderson of St. Louis, is averaging 22.8 points a game. Dan Milligan and Roger Drake, both seniors from Bethalto, Ill., are also averaging in double figures.

Southeast Missouri defeated Washington University last season, 85-63.

Wrestling Playoffs Next Week

The MSHSAA District Wrestling Tournament series opens at sixteen sites across the state next week as some 125 schools battle for the state title, won by McCluer High School in 1968.

District action begins in Kansas City at the Interscholastic League Fieldhouse Monday, while ten other sites have opening matches Thursday and five will begin Friday. Semifinals and finals at Kansas City are scheduled for February 4 and 5, while all other sites will hold their semifinals and finals February 8.

The sites include: Hazelwood; Riverview Gardens; Horton-Watkins (Ladue); St. Louis University High; Principia; St. Louis Roosevelt; Charleston; Springfield Parkview; Mexico; Lexington; Norborne; Savannah; Park Hill; William Chrisman of Independence; Belton and the KC Interscholastic League Fieldhouse.

The winners of the first two places in the district tournament in each weight class will qualify for regional tournament competition. Four regional meets are scheduled for February 14 and 15 at McCluer Nehlville, Excelsior Springs and Odessa.

The first and second place winners in the regional tournament will then qualify for the state event, which will be held on February 21 and 22.

State individual champions will be determined in twelve weight classes. They are: 95, 103, 112, 120, 127, 133, 138, 145, 154, 165 and heavyweight. A team champion will also be crowned.

McCluer captured the team title in 1968, edging Hazelwood 44-42. Oak Park of North Kansas City was third with 36 points.

Sikeston Downs Indians; Ray Loveless Undefeated

By TERRY NOWELL
Standard Sportswriter

Sikeston High School Bulldog grapplers growled past the Jackson Indians last night, 35-17, as they took their fourth win of the season.

This marks Sikeston's second consecutive win against Jackson as it swept by the Indians 33-13 in an earlier duel.

Coach John Brooke said the team showed the form tonight which will be a vital asset to the squad in the coming district competition.

Ray Loveless, 120-pound junior, remained undefeated as he fought to a draw against his Jackson opponent. Ray now holds a 4-0-1 slate with two duel meets remaining.

Senior Riley Gross took his ninth victory of the season against one loss, which he suffered during the Parkway battle.

Bulldogs will travel to East Prairie tomorrow afternoon to wrestle the Eagles and return home Monday as they host the undefeated Charleston Blue Jays. Those two meets will end Sikeston's duel meet wrestling season.

Sikeston won both of the junior varsity matches as Randy Reynolds and Larry Johnson pinned their opponents.

Wehrli Will Lose Jersey Number 23

COLUMBIA - Something will have to give when Roger Wehrli, the St. Louis Cardinals' first-round draft choice, joins the club next year, -- and it will be Wehrli's collegiate jersey number -- 23.

Trouble is, that Wehrli's all-American predecessor at Mizzou -- halfback Johnny Roland -- has a prior claim on that number. Roland wore 23 for Ol' Mizzou -- and retained it with the Cardinals.

Although the islands are governed effectively, there are two police forces, three sets of laws three currencies, two systems of weights and measures and two national languages — English and French.

Tax Questions and Answers

NO. 69-3

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters s provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q - I received my tax forms in the mail but my son didn't Why is that? He started working last summer and taxes are being taken out of his was.

A - A tax return is mailed to everyone who filed a return for the previous year. Your son would therefore not receive a tax form if he started working in 1968 as youindicate.

Copies of the 1968 tax forms and instructions are available at local IRS offices as well as many post offices and banks.

Q - If I file my 1968 return by the end of January can I forget about the fourth installment of my estimated tax?

A - Yes, if you file your 1968 return by January 31 paying any balance due at that time. But don't forget tha 1969 declarations must be filed by April 15.

Q - Last year I sold some stock I had received from my father's estate. Do I have to pay tax on this money?

A - You will only have to include in income any increase between the value of the stock at the time your father died and what you sold it for.

The amount of the increase will have to be repoed as a capital gain on Schedule D. However, if the stock decreased in value the loss may be used to reduce any other capital gains you might have to report for 1968. For deails see the instructions on Schedule D.

Q - I got married last year and my wife and I both received 1040 tax packages. If we file a joint return, whose label should be puform mine or hers? A - On joint returns the account is primarily identified by the husband's social security number. Therefore, file the return with your labelinadding youW's name to it but be sure also to enter your wife's social security number on the return in the space provided for it.

Q - Are farmers subject to the new surcharge?

A - ey like all income taxpayers are subject to the tas surcharge.

Q - I can't find the W-2 form I got from my summer job. What should I do?

A - Contact your former employehim for a duplicate copy of your W-2 statement.

Q - Is it true that if I have less than $100 a year in dividends I don't have to report them on my tax reurn A-Al tdiielu ecive should be reported but generally the first $100 in dividends is not subject to tax.

Wells who was recently elected a senior vice president of the company and appointed director of corporate planning and development.

Mr. Lundberg has nineteen years experience in the baking industry and has served in various management capacities. He joined Interstate Bakeries in March, 1967 from American Bakeries where he was a vice president - production and engineering and a director.

Mr. Lundberg attended Colorado College in Colorado Springs and was graduated from the University of Nebraska in Lincoln with a B. Sc. degree in Mechanical Engineering.

He will continue to maintain his office at the company's headquarters in Kansas City, Missouri.

Nixon Says Dissent Will Be Heard

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has told some 700 officials charged with carrying out his foreign policy that there is plenty of room in his "Forward Together" administration for any dissenting views they may hold.

"Where there are strong dissenting views on foreign policy, I want these views, too," the President told a gathering of State Department officials Wednesday as he continued a round of get-acquainted visits to Capitol Hill and federal agencies.

Nixon took a slight break from that routine today for two prayer meetings, a session with the Apollo 8 astronauts and a White House dinner with the three moon-trip veterans and their wives.

Nixon held a two-hour session with the National security Council Wednesday in the White House, devoted mainly to a discussion of the nuclear, nonproliferation treaty. But there was no word on when there will be a move toward ratification in the Senate.

Along with visits to the Senate and the State Department, Nixon made one high-level appointment, naming Gerard Smith, a 54-year-old lawyer as director of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency.

Nixon said he was upgrading the job and that Smith, credited by President John F. Kennedy with originating the Washington-Moscow hotline, would have "direct access to the secretary of state and to the President."

Smith has been an atomic energy adviser in three administrations.

At the State Department, Nixon spoke to 700 employes before a two-hour meeting with 30 top policy makers in Secretary of State William Rogers' eighth floor offices.

At the Senate, Nixon had lunch in Minority Leader Everett Dirksen's office with 16 Senate leaders from both parties.

Then he came out on the floor for an ovation from his one-time colleagues and the public galleries. He noted it was his first trip there since he left the Senate as vice president eight years ago.

In a brief speech, Nixon made it clear the executive branch needs the advice as well as consent of the Senate and he would be "most appreciative of getting their views."

Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., said as far as the Democratic side is concerned "we will do everything we can to make you a good President because we feel if you are good, the nation will benefit."

When Polish-born Joseph Conrad, author of "Heart of Darkness," joined the English merchant marine in 1878 he could speak only a few words of English the language of which he became a master, says The World Almanac. It was a strange decision for Conrad to go to sea in that his family was without nautical tradition and his country without a seacoast.

Mail Box

To The Editor:

I just returned from buying a quantity of stamps at the post office. The thought came to me that with all branches of government trying to get more and more tax money and looking for new fields to tax, the post office is a fertile one. A sales tax could be added to postage stamps the same as we now pay on cigarettes, liquor, gasoline, etc. So why not postage stamps? Everyone uses them. The P. O. Wants to discourage use of mail.

The amount of tax would be modest (at first) and should bother few people when you consider they already pay a nickle for a penny postcard. And, after all, it is only money. You could pay the post office a 25-cent copper quarters that are beginning to wear thin and look rather shoody. It might be better to get some postage stamps for them than someday have to turn them in for cost of production which was less than a penny.

Pill Sales Thrive Even In Italy

ROME (AP) — More and more women in Roman Catholic Italy are taking birth control pills, but pharmacists say shame, ignorance and obedience to the Church are still deterrents.

Contraceptive pills were first put on sale in Italy in the fall of 1964. After a slow start, sales hit six million pills in 1966 and doubled the next year, according to the health ministry. Estimates for 1968 put the total at 24 million, taken regularly by 100,000 women, a 100 per cent increase for the second year in a row.

The figures indicate that Pope Paul VI's encyclical renewing the Church's ban on mechanical and chemical forms of birth control may be slowing the progress of the pill in Italy but it hasn't stopped it.

Pharmaceutical industries reported a decline in sales in August, the month after the Pope issued his encyclical, but sales surged upward again in September and kept rising in the months after. Pharmacists say most drug sales declined in August.

Legally, Italians must have a doctor's prescription to purchase the pill because the law requires that it be sold only for medical treatment. Some pharmacists ignore the prescription requirement, while others display more zeal in enforcement than the law requires of them.

In Rome, for instance, some pharmacists are not satisfied with a prescritpion and insist on seeing the buyer's identity papers to make sure the name on the papers matches that on the prescription.

The pill is most popular in the industrial North, where wages are higher and people are better educated. Eighteen per cent of the nation's sales are made in the Milan area and another 13 per cent in Venice. The Rome area is third with 12 per cent of sales, and the island of Sardinia trails with only 1.3 per cent.

Those who buy the pill almost always ask a woman pharmacist for it. Those who live in small towns or villages often go to a city for it, "especially those who are unmarried," a doctor in Milan said.

Family planning experts say that because of the law and traditional Catholic attitudes, the vast majority of Italians do not know exactly how the pill is used and blush at the thought of entering a pharmacy to ask for it.

This is especially true because women must show their own prescriptions. Other contraceptive devices are still more popular than the pill in Italy, and men do most of the buying.

But getting a prescription from a family doctor generally is no problem.

"One hundred thousand women prove that the small revolution of the pill also has arrived in Italy," the Turin newspaper La Stampa commented.

Goodtime Hour Comedy Not up to Its Music

NEW YORK (AP) — If the quality of its comedy material can ever match the quality of its music, the new "Glen Campbell Goodtime Hour" will be one of the most attractive variety programs in television.

The premiere show of the CBS series opened with a hefty serving of song by Campbell, of course, and along came Bobbie Gentry and John Hartford. Before the 60 minutes had gone by they had covered most of the numbers that made their reputations and then some.

The Smothers Brothers were there—logically since they are not only the producers of the new series but it was from their summer replacement series that Campbell's career took off.

Campbell's attractive singing style and skill on the guitar are especially easy to take. Miss Gentry with her husky, true voice and John Hartford, whose sensitive, pensive face illuminates the sad lyrics of his ballads are interesting to watch and hear.

The studio audience—or maybe it was a laugh track—screamed wildly at the comedy. However, it did seem that there must have been a better way to amuse the audience than to dress Tom Smothers in a cowboy suit and put him astride a real live hippopotamus which he treated like a horse. Or a better way to handle a monologue than to dress Pat Paulsen in an open-fronted shirt, put a guitar in his hands and make him read an over-blown and almost desperate piece about the history of the folk song.

But as long as Campbell and his musical friends are prominently and actively in the program, it will be a good choice for Wednesday nights during the rest of the season.

The appearance of the Smothers Brothers on Campbell's show illustrates one of the curious convictions of producers who book guest stars on television shows. For some reason, they believe unanimously that it is a real treat for viewers to see singers and comedians who have weekly network series of their own as guests on other singers and comedians weekly series.

Thus we encounter Carol Burnett in a Lucy episode, and after awhile there's Lucy on Carol's show. Or Tom and Dickie Smothers show up on "Laughin." And pretty soon Dan Rowan and Dick Martin return the visit. The truth is, it's not much of a treat, and besides, it is bound to lead to over-exposure of a special sort.

Another TV custom which has long since staled is the business of having stars with a show coming up appearing on an assortment of programs on the same network for the sole purpose of plugging their project. The game shows and the early morning and late evening conversation shows are widely used for this purpose.

It seems that at least twice a week Johnny Carson must struggle with some performer awkwardly attempting to sell some TV product. Eydie Gorme was the most recent Carson guest with TV plugs on her mind, but she was better than most because she could at least sing a song or two. Too much of the time, the guest has little of interest to contribute—neither quick wit nor a good anecdote—and the viewer suffers right along with Carson.

Schumacher On Subiaco Honor Roll

SUBIACO, ARK. (Special) -- Mark Schumacher, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. X. Schumacher, 530 Vernon Ave, Sikeston, was among the fifteen students making the semester honor roll at Subiaco Academy where he is a senior. Mark maintained a an A average throughout the semester.

To be rated an Honor student, the student must have a scholastic average of 86 or above, with no mark below 80. His Behavior and Application marks must be considered satisfactory by all his teachers and superior by at least half of his teachers. In addition, his character must be such as to have merited the 'honors' rating by the Administration of the Academy.

A combined educational and recreational field trip to the Arkansas legislature is being planned for the group by Father Benno Schluterman, O.S.B., principal of the Academy.

To The Editor:

A comparison between the old and the new morality is quite interesting.

A "token of appreciation" consisting of a vicuna coat was not only the reason for dismissal of a prominent official a few years ago, but almost an excuse to demand a change in government.

Today things are different and are done on a much larger scale - you might say, wholesale. In place of a mere coat, a $1000-a-plate testimonial dinner attended by 500 or more "friends" of the guest is held. Salary increases of $15,000 a year for certain government officials are "recommended" by a committee chaired by a former head of a big utility which is regulated by those who will get the increase. Was discretion the better part of valor in arriving at the decision?

Retirement benefits for the boys and girls formerly on government pay rolls seem to net a retirement benefit which each year pays more than the recipient contributed during his entire working time. The ordinary citizen might be interested in learning the source of such compound interest so he could pass it on to his insurance underwriter. This pension is paid regardless of whether the recipient takes another job, and is not withheld as is the Social Security of ordinary citizens who in their old age are still willing to work.

Wouldn't it be nice if the average citizen had the same basic rights as some others -- beside the one to pay taxes?

C. L. Blanton Jr., Editor
Daily Sikeston Standard

Dear Mr. Blanton:

Sometime ago you had a picture regarding the rioting students of Reed College, Portland, Ore.

To most readers that was just another riot, but to me it brought back memories of how that college got started.

At the early part of the century that campus was the Crystal Springs Jersey cattle farm., owned by Reed and Ladd, of the Tilton Bank of Portland.

In 1904 these men purchased some top Jersey producers at the St. Louis W.lds Fair in St. Louis, bring back several of the top milk producers from a farm in Orfordville, Wisc.

I worked with this here for six years, and one of these cars was shown at the Chicago Fair in 1893.

Mr. Reed decided Portland needed a college, and he decided to give up the dariy cattle business, and donated the ground for a new college. The owners moved the heard to timber land nine miles north of the city, where staves were made and four-foot water pipes brought water down from the mountains for many miles.

Since the manager of the cattle farm retired, I was given the job of caring for the cattle herd.

All timber work was done by hand, and I cut many a cord of wood for $1 per day, and helped build four barns and silos. A few years later Mr. Ladd sold the herd, and the land is now a country golf course.

The timber was all fir, and the stumps would never rot, so we had to use 20 per cent dynamite. The amount of dynamite determined whether the stumps could be moved, and a winch was attached to the roots and pulled by a horse.

When the trees were cleared the land was used to grow Canadian field peas, winter oats and vetch. Corn was grown for silage as the weather would not let it mature enough to crib.

Yours truly,
Walter C. Klein

IF PROPERTY IS TAXED, SUGGESTS PROPERTY VOTE

To the Editor:

The suggestion for a single-house Missouri Legislature with a nominal number of members is at least simpler and perhaps better than two houses, as long as representation has to be on a strict population basis.

If members were elected in odd - numbered years for four-year terms, and half elected each odd - numbered year, we would perhaps get a reasonably balanced representation.

There have been statements that sticks and stones do not warrant any representation.

There have been statements that sticks and stones do not warrant any representation. But while we are considering changing our legislative makeup, why not go a little further and afford some thought to giving property the right to vote on certain economic issues.

If property is asked to pay taxes to support many projects that are okayed because a tax base will pay the bill, how far away is this from the righteousness of one man - one vote?

If your house or property, a railroad or factory or other business is to be subject to a tax, what is wrong with giving them a say so.

Also it might be worthwhile for many communities to exempt some productive business such as a factory from local taxes, on the assumption their main value is to provide employment for local citizens, not to be a tax base.

Vocational Schools Discussed at Matthews

Meeting for the first time in the Matthews School facilities, the Board of Education of New Madrid County R-1 (Enlarged) disposed of the usual routine business and held lengthy discussion on a number of agenda items. Members present were Arvil Adams, A. C. Riley, Tom Maschmeyer, Markus Koch, and Paul Mahar.

Jake Weaks, an officer with he Missouri State Department of Community Affairs, discussed the vocational schools he had recently visited in South Carolina pointing out that this state had $635,000,000 in new industrial construction during 1968. Weaks attributed much of this growth to the fine vocational training available in that state to both adults and public school age citizens. He suggested that the Board visit one of these schools before finalizing a vocational program.

Max Timmons, Superintendent of Schools, gave a report on the progress of the district's application for a vocational school grant with the Economic Development Agency. He reported the initial steps were reported to be in order and there is a general feeling of confidence that the application will be approved and funding made available toward the erection of this facility in the near future.

The Board then adopted a policy concerning free or reduced priced meals in the lunch rooms of the district. This policy is in keeping with a recent State Department of Education ruling and sets the criteria for individuals to qualify for free or reduced priced meals. The policy is being released to all news media as the Department prescribed.

Preliminary budget projection needs were discussed at length, however, all budgetary actions were deferred until such a time when the state participation can be more accurately ascertained. The Board felt that the state is going to have to assume a larger portion of school costs if needed improvements are to be made in the educational programs. It is felt that the Governor's recent recommendation is a step in the right direction.

President Adams suggested that the members of the Board stay well abreast of the developing state school legislation so constructive work can be done on bills that vitally affect this district.

Quality IS NOT EXPENSIVE!

Nothing was ever produced but what someone could make it worse and sell it for less.

This little axiam is as true of the milk business as it is of any other. No matter how little you want to pay, there is always someone who has a product of (?) quality at that price.

We believe in reasonable prices for our Dairy Products. We also believe in fair prices to the producer and to the employee. We also believe that the processor must have a fair profit so that he can pass if possible all improvements in machinery on to the consumer at no extra cost.

Seniors Order Caps, Gowns

Seniors were measured for caps and gowns Tuesday in physical education classes. This was the first of a number of experiences the seniors will soon undergo.

Height, weight, and cap measurements were recorded by the teachers to be sent to the E.R. Moore Company in Chicago.

Gowns and caps will be navy blue in color, and will be worn by the seniors during graduation services.

Navy blue tassels with the class number, 1969, will be given to seniors as a memento of graduation exercises.

Gowns will be rentedfor $4, and will be returned immediately following commencement ceremony.

Class Ring Deadline Is Tomorrow

Deadline is tomorrow for juniors to order the '70 class ring.

Rings may be ordered from any Sikeston jeweler, and a $10 deposit is necessary at that time.

Representatives who selected the ring were chosen in homerooms last month.

Students who made the final selection were Gary Foote, Eddie Throop, Grady Jones, Carla Chaney, Barbara Culbertson, Christy Crews, and Dan Hazel.

Eight groups of rings were on display for the juniors to make the selection, and one ring had to be chosen from a particular group.

The ring is round and comes to a point on top. Two circles on the side of the ring contain the numbers 1970, and students may choose either a plain set or a ruby set.

Rings will be made by the Herff-Jones Company, and Charles Brandon of Dexter is the Salesman.

Six Choir Members Are To Sing In Area Group

Seniors David Bird RachelArdreyRandy Atwell, Larry McCann, Barbara Armour, and Junior Debbie Collins were recently chosen to participate in the all-district choir.

This is the first year the choir has been organized in this area.

Choir, composed of approximately 80 voices from Southeast Missouri schools, will practice Wednesday, March 12, in Cape Girardeau.

This select group will perform for the opening session of the Southeast Missouri District Teachers Association Thursday morning, March 13.

Try-outs were held in several schools in this area and the choir is composed of students from the entire district.

The first general session of the convention will be held in the Houck Field House on the campus of SEMO State.

Egg breakers, thumb cutters and screen apes are among the thousands of Americans who have odd-sounding jobs. Egg breakers do precisely that in mass-production bakeries. Thumb cutters work in glove factories. Screen apes are workmen who tend the shaking screens that sort newly mined coal.

Students To Represent Chapter At Convention

Four Sikeston high school students were chosen to represent the Veritas Chapter at the National Honor Society Convention in Independence, February 28-March 1.

President Gary Long, Tonja Thompson, Julie Crader, and Phil Matthews will be accompanied by the sponsor Mrs. Catherine Matthews.

Convention will be held at the Van Horn high school and will be attended Honor Society representatives from the entire state.

Representatives will take part in discussion groups and panels. National issues as well as school issues will be discussed and students are urged to take an active part in each.

Plans for the annual induction of new members have been made for Saturday, March 29.

Tonja Thompson, Mike Struwe, Denise Hipes, and Gene Spitzmiller will present the traditional program with speeches on the topics of "leadership, scholarship, service, and character."

The 1880-90 period in the United States was a brilliant decade for inventors. Industry introduced the incandescent lamp, the automobile, the cash register, the trolley car, the pneumatic tire, the dynamo, transparent film, electric welding, the electric furnace, steam turbine and smokeless powder.

Snow Determines School Holiday

Eight inches of snow fell in the Sikeston area Sunday and classes were dismissed in the public schools Monday.

Roads in the area were generally snow-covered, but most of the highways were clear by Tuesday morning because the rain had fallen Monday night.

Classes resumed Tuesday morning in all of the public and parochial schools in Sikeston and the surrounding area.

This was the largest accumulation of snow since 1957. Seven inches of snow fell in 1967, and in 1960, the region was covered with seven and three-quarter inches.

The snow created hazards for motorists Sunday afternoon and Monday. In the Sikeston area, snowplows were employed in the early afternoon Sunday.

Crew of city workers graded and hauled the truck loads of snow from the downtown area.

Large accumulation of snow caused many students to revert to childhood sports of sledding, snowball fights, and building snowmen. Some, however, were forced to retain their maturity by aiding motorists caught in drifts.

Representatives Present Program At SHS

Sikeston high school science students attended a demonstration of various machines and computers Thursday morning.

Demonstration was given by Dr. Dave Hargis. He demonstrated the use of a telephone that can turn off lights in a house, turn off the oven, or turn on the sprinkler or air conditioner. The new phone will be put into use in the future.

Telephone is pocket-size and may be carried in a purse or pocket. It is now being used in Arizona and New Mexico for local and long distant calls.

A tape of a computer called Chatty Cathy sang and played the music to the song "Daisy."

A business phone that transforms the type on key punch cards into variations of a sound was also shown. Thousands of words are sent over the phone in a matter of seconds. Word variations are received by a phone which transform plain punch cards into identical duplicates of the punch cards which may be thousands of miles away.

Dr. Hargis told the group that in the very near future the dial phones will be changed to key punch. This will save approximately 15 seconds on each phone call made.

Dr. Hargis also stated that research workers are perfecting a computer that analyzes the problem of a caller. Computers gather the information needed from its memory banks and then relays s this to the caller, thus solving the problems.

Dr. Hargis is the representative for the Bell Telephone home office which is in St. Louis.

He has a bachelor of science in physics, a master's degree in history, and an honorary doctrite.

Dennis Barnes, a Sikeston high school graduate, arranged and scheduled the program. Dennis is the brother of junior Bruce Barnes.

Growler Staff To Open Sales For February

"Growler sales will be opened Monday morning and continue through February," said co-editor Andrea Ables.

Staff will open the sales for February to enable students who did not purchase a book in the fall to do so.

Books will not be sold after March because the publisher will be in the process of printing many of the pages.

Paragon Press must know how many copies to print when the cover goes on the press the first of March.

Staff had to select the yearbook royalty in November and the sales closed at that time. This extra month will enable those students who did not buy a book to do so during February.

Price of the book is $5, and the full amount must be paid at the time of purchase.

English Classes Print Literary '69 Anthology

Entries for the second annual edition of the Sikeston high school student anthology may be submitted to students' English teachers until the deadline set by a committee of teachers.

Final deadline will be Friday, Feb. 28, and material may be either prose or poetry suitable for publication.

Work will be selected for publication on the basis of originality, interest, and application of principles of good writing.

Entries must be typed, double-spaced, and on one side of the paper only. Proper margins should be used. The maximum length is four pages, and shorter works are preferred.

On the first line of the entry, the title should be typed in capital letters; on the line beneath should be typed the student's name, a dash, and the class the student is in (freshman, sophomore, junior, or senior). A line should be skipped preceding the composition.

Denise Hipes Is Campus Leader, Barker Staffer

Denise has been a member of the Girl Scouts for 11 years and is now serving as public relations aide for the Cotton Boll Council.

Denise was one of five Sikeston Representatives at Girls State last summer and was elected mayor of her city and county superintendent of schools.

Denise plans to attend Southeast Missouri State College and major in elementary education, with a minor in library science.

Her hobbies include colllecting postcards and making colleges, which she offten presents to presents to friends. She enjoys water skiing and a good game of tennis.

Denise is of French and German descent, a fact that will surprise the many students who believe her to be an Indian.

She resides with her parents at 735 Goodhope with her parents, her brothers, Blaine and Bryon, and her poodle, Cognac.

Senior Denise Hipes serves duo-capacities in the journalism department as feature editor of the Barker and class editor of the Growler. Denise displays many other talents in addition to her journalistic aptitudes.

Denise has been a member of the top 10 per cent of her class since the eighth grade and was inducted into the National Honor Society her sophomore year.

Members of the society elected her to be one of the speakers at the annual candlelight induction service, with the topic of "character."

Denise also displays musical talents through her participation in concert choir VI, 7:30 band, and the clarinet quartet.

Last spring, Denise was elected secretary of the Red Peppers. She was named one of the "peppy Red Peppers" for the first game at the Poplar Bluff Invitational Basketball Tournament.

Ten Girls Are Peppy Peppers

Beth Montgomery, Tonja Thompson, Linda Powell, Phyllis Ford, Susan Dawson, Barbara Faulkner, Debbie Schaffer, Laura Horne, Denise Hipes, Nancy Turner, and Denise Lewis were chosen as outstanding Red Peppers for the opening night of the Poplar Bluff Tournament Monday.

Girls showed an amazing amount of spirit and enthusiasm throughout the game and should be commended on their active support of the Bulldogs.

Because of snow and ice, many Red Peppers and other supporters were unable to attend the basketball game.

Red Pepper bus that was scheduled to leave the high school at 5:30 was canceled because of bad weather.

Bulldogs defeated the Fisk Players, 63-43

Bulldogs met the Poplar Bluff Indians last night and will be playing in the finals tonight.

Bulldogs will be hosts to the Dexter Bearcats next Friday evening in the opening game of the new field house.

RED PEPPERS who braved the snow and cheered the Bulldogs on to victory in the Poplar Bluff invitational tournament against Fisk Monday night are (seated) Nancy Turner, Denise Hipes, Beth Montgomery, Tonja Thompson, and Phyllis Ford, (standing) Susan Dawson, Barbara Faulkner, and Denise Lewis.

Mail Load Picks up In Loveland

LOVELAND, Colo. (AP) — With Valentine's Day only about two weeks away, postmaster Fred Brewer is getting ready to play Cupid again.

Each year, an estimated 100,000 valentines are processed by Brewer and his staff for people in all 50 states and many foreign countries who want their messages of love to carry the postmark of this fittingly named town.

Brewer himself hand cancels about 8,000 valentines, including the ones for his wife and five grandchildren.

In addition to the "Loveland" postmark, cards and letters sent to this city of 18,500 for remailing are stamped with a bare bottomed Cupid in a cowboy hat and a verse. This year's reads, "The heart-L brand reaches far throughout the land."

The mailing campaign for the Feb. 14 hearts and flowers day was first thought of in 1947. Anyone who wants the special postmark simply stamps and addresses his valentine as usual, encloses it in another envelope and mails it to Loveland for redistribution.

Getting into the spirit of things, the Chamber of Commerce has, for the past eight years, chosen as "Miss Loveland Valentine" from among the community's high school seniors.

There are three other Lovelands in the postal guide—in Ohio, Oklahoma and Iowa. None of them, howeger, gets more than a few cards for remailing.

Other romantics can choose from Loving or Lovelady in Texas; Lovely, Okla.; Lovelock, Nev.; Loves Park, Ill.; or Love Valley, N.C.

First shot fired by the AEF in World War I was fired by Battery C of the 6th Field Artillery on Oct. 23, 1917.

Lumber Company Leaves Sikeston For Memphis

50 years ago
January 31, 1919

The Baker-Matthews Lumber Co., will be moved from Sikeston to Memphis, Tenn., sometime this week, according to present plans. The going of this company takes from Sikeston the second largest business concern in Southeast Missouri, this firm ranking next in size to the Scott County Milling Co. The Baker-Matthews Lumber Co., was organized in 1916, as a wholesale lumber business and is the largest in this section of the state. For some months it has been practically decided to consolidate the Sikeston offices with those in Memphis, principally because the southern offices were in closer touch with lumber producing territory.

Beginning Monday morning, the management of the Scott-Madrid Motor Co., in Ithis city, changed from A.E. Hunze to L.S. Karren, formerly of Cape Girardeau. Mr. Hunze will be the salesman for the garage, selling Fordson tractors and automobiles.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Roy Oliver, on January 25, an eleven pound boy.

Jim Limbaugh arrived home Monday morning from Camp Funston, Kas., having been mustered out of the army at that camp.

What we wish most for now is more light--sunshine to gladden our hearts and dry up the water. With sunshine the flu would soon disappear and the gloom generally disperse. It has been several months since a solid week of sunshine has visited this section. No wonder the depressed looks and the depressed feelings of every other many you meet.

The editor and wife extend a hearty welcome to another granddaughter who arrived Saturday. She was born to MMr. and Mrs. Harry Blanton at St. Francis Hospital in Cape Girardeau. Mother and babe doing nicely.

Raymond Bailey of Shelbina is expected in Sikeston this afternoon to assume employment in the Standard mechanical department.

Mrs. Reba Buckles of Sikeston has taken a position as secretary of the Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau. She has been working at the institution during the past week and will take the place of Miss Bess Dudley of Cape.

Malone Theatre, today, Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy in "Sweethearts" with Frank Morgan, Ray Bolger, Florence Rice and Mischa Auer.

The following group drove to Charleston Wednesday night to see the film, "Brother Rat," Mrs. Lee Bowman, Mrs. A.C. Barrett Miss Myra Tanner, Mrs. John Esher, Mrs. Frank Kuehnel and Mrs. Murray Klein.

A spark from a welding torch that dropped into a pool of gasoline, caused by a carburator overflow, resulted in a blaze Saturday morning that swept through the maintenance building and blacksmith shop of the State Highway Department, damaging road apparatus and charring the entire interior.

An electricity rate schedule for the state of Missouri, compiled and just released by the Federal Power Commission, shows that Sikeston users' bills are approximately the 20th lowest in the list of 60 cities of 2,500 to 10,000 population.

The Rev. Jesse E. Smith will arrive Wednesday to take up his duties as pastor of the First Assembly of God Church in Sikeston.

Old man weather, who has been busying himself with giving other parts of the nation and the state a hard time of it for the past month turned his attention to Southeast Missouri last night. The result was a two-inch snowfall in the Sikeston area coupled with a temperature of 11 degrees early this morning.

Miss Patricia Eileen Caldwell of Columbia and George Edward Tope, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tope, sr., were married January 28 at the home of the bride's parents, 719 Gentry Place in Columbia.

Hospital notes. Mr. and Mrs. Glen Jones of Sikeston have a baby son born January 28 at the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gage of Sikeston have a baby daughter born on the 28th.

Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Felkerson of Gray Ridge have a daughter born on the 28th.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Anderson of Oran have a girl born on the 29th.

The Sikeston Bulldogs crushed Charleston 57 to 32 Friday night to delight a crowd estimated at 700 fans who turned out to watch their first game at the Armory.

It's hard to believe that gasoline was once poured into streams as a dangerous by-product of kerosene. This prevailed until the automobile with its internal combustion engine arrived on the scene to consume this waste product. You can trace the history of gasoline and gasoline pumps at the Harold Warp Pioneer Village at Minden, Nebraska.

If You Were the Judge

Nude Motel Guest Sues Owner

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Joan registered at a motor court and ended up in a civil court. During the night, the motel mysteriously caught fire. Jumping out of bed, Joan hastily climbed through a window and, for a half hour thereafter, stood around in her unmentionables, was on his night able and now they can't find it.

When the smoke finally cleared away, Joan sued the owner of he motel for her harrowing and embarrassed experience as well as or the loss of all her clothing and other personal belongings consumed by the fire.

"The only thing I was able to save," Joan told the judge, "was myself. Everything else was destroyed including my composure with exposure.' count your teeth. Joyce is either a kleptomaniac or a thief, probably the latter, since start the blaze and neither did any of my employees. If she's burned up, think of my poor motel!"

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you require the motel owner to pay Joan for her embarrassment? I took off the beads and it looks great. The only thing is, Ann, the sweater is cut sort responsible for the losses of a guest arising out of a fire where the fire was not the result of any negligence on his part or on the part of any of his employees.

Charleston Chamber To Hold Annual Membership Drive

CHARLESTON — The Chamber of Commerce will kick off its 1969 membership drive with a fried chicken dinner Wednesday night for all 1968 members and prospective new members, Chamber President Marion Waggener announced today.

Waggener promised an interesting program, including reports of the industrial development committee; Charles Brink, chairman of the airport committee; Bob Coon, chairman of the community betterment committee; Al Friedman, chairman of the retail merchants' committee; David Rolwing, chairman of the agriculture committee; and Dr. T. P. Fenton, who will outline his plans for a clinic and hospital.

Ponder is expected to talk about the industrial prospects currently considering locating in Charleston; Brink will tell what his group is doing to promote an FAA-approved airport in Charleston; Friedman will discuss retail promotion plans for 1969; and Rolwing will discuss plans for a greatly - expanded soybean yield contest and other agricultural promotions. Coon's group is expected to reveal its plans for making Charleston a 5-Star community betterment city.

The dinner will be held at 6:30 p.m. at the Knights of Columbus Hall, and tickets will cost $1.50 each.

The president said the Chamber has "some real big plans for Charleston this year," and "we need the support of every citizen of the town in order to carry those plans through to success."

The committee on membership and finance, with Art Wallhausen Jr. as chairman, will be on hand to enroll anyone who wishes to join the Chamber of Commerce and help the organization with its work of community improvement.

"Remember," Waggener said, "you do not have to be a member of the Chamber of Commerce to attend this chicken dinner. Everyone is invited."

Two Bluff Men Indicted in Fraud Case

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Two officers of a defunct Poplar Bluff, Mo., brokerage firm were indicted by a federal grand jury Thursday for alleged fraud and failure to report to a federal agency.

Judson L. Stokely, president, and Robert E. Singelton, vice president, of Investors Securities Associates were named in the indictment.

U.S. Atty. Veryl Riddle said the two men were accused of obtaining more than $250,000 from 11 customers for stock the customers never received.

Eleven counts of the indictment alleged failure to deliver the securities. The 12th count charges that the firm failed to submit reports to the Federal Securities and Exchange Commission.

The transactions involved in the indictment were said to have occurred between June 1, 1966, and July 17, 1967.

The indictment alleged the brokerage firm was insolvent as of Dec. 31, 1966, but officers certified the firm's assets included 2,000 shares of stock, which it did not own.

Conviction of failure to deliver securities is punishable by a maximum fine of $5,000 and five years in prison. The penalty for conviction for failure to file reports with the SEC is a maximum $10,000 fine and two years in prison.

11th Plane Hijacked

MIAMI (AP)—A National Airlines DC8 with 63 persons aboard— including a stewardess who felt a hijacker's gun against her neck last Marchwas diverted to Cuba today by a pistol packing sky pirate.

Flight 44 from San Francisco to Miami with a stop scheduled at Tampa, was off the Louisiana coast when Capt. Charles Leeds radioed the news.

The plane, 11th of the year to be hijacked to Cuba, landed in Havana at 6:58 a.m. EST.

Aboard were 55 passengers and a crew of eight, including stewardess Donna Goldinher, who was grabbed by a hijacker last March 12 and forced to march to the cockpit with a gun at her neck. Three Cuban refugees later were charged.

When Leeds reported the hijacking today he said the plane was being hijacked by a "man with a gun at the head of the stewardess." It was not known whether the stewardess again was Miss Goldinher, a pretty, 26-year-old brunette.

"I am diverting to Havana, I have been hijacked," said Leeds. At the time his plane was about 67 miles southwest of Grand Isle, La.

Leaving the passengers in Havana - the normal procedure in hijackings to Cuba - the crew flew the DC8 back to Miami, landing at 11:30 a.m.

Other members of the crew were First Officer Wallace Pawley, Flight Engineer Clyde Roper and stewardesses Thelma Tarleton, Leanna J. Anderson, Pamela Klinger and Miss Goldinher.

Also aboard was William D. Stevens, an air traffic control specialist for the Federal Aviation Administration stationed at St. Petersburg. An NAL spokesman said Williams was aboard on a routine assignment to observe route procedure.

No Vacancies In SikestonSchools

In a statement today Sikeston Supt. Lynn Twitty said there are no teacher vacancies at present.

The present salary scale is $5,300 for a starting teacher, and ranges upward to $7,400. The top salary is for a master's degree, with 30 hours additional credit, and with 14 years teaching experience.

Mr. Twitty added that many of the beginning teachers receive additional compensation for additional duties on th school campus.

Supt. Twitty further stated that "if the state legislature passes Senate Bill No. 1, teacher turnover would drop to a degree, as it would include salary increases. This salary increase would range from $500 to $700 per teacher."

"UP WITH PEOPLE" is coming to Sikeston with a cast of 200 performers to explore a new dimension of sound and ideas for the future. The group will appear at the new Field House Feb. 15 and 16. Tickets may be purchased from the Chamber of Commerce office or at any of the city's three banks, and at the Midtowner Village.

Sing-Out Group Date Set

A cast of Up With People Sing-Out group, one of three in the nation, will appear in Sikeston at the new Field House Feb. 15 and 16.

The group sonsists of 200 performers.

The two performances will begin at 8 p.m. and will include from 40 to 50 songs.

Admission will be $1.50 for students and $2.50 for adults.

The group will travel in four Greyhound buses and will require two vans for 11 tons of equipment, and a semi-trailer baggage truck, together with five cars for the leaders and a few singers who may be unable to travel by bus.

Cast C, as it is known, is now touring the mid-west, and will appear in 20 or more cities in Missouri.

Spending this week in Sikeston are two members of the cast, Misses Linda Lane, West Palm Beach, Fla.,and Donna Krenrick, Akron, Ohio, to complete arrangements for appearances at Southeast Missouri State College and at Poplar Bluff. They are staying at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hazel and Mr. and Mrs. Dave Perry.

No member of the cast receives any compensation and all performance receipts go for travel expenses.

AEC Says New Weapons Added

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission said today it has developed new and secret nonnuclear components for the nation's already fearsome weapons.

And the agency hinted the new developments may already have been tested in the continuing quest to improve the nation's nuclear arsenal.

The component-development disclosure came in one short paragraph of the AEC's annual report to Congress prepared for release today.

In the same report, the AEC made a new oblique reference to a conclusion voiced in 1966 by Congress' Joint Committee on Atomic Energy that China could be capable of launching a hydrogen-missile attack on the United States before the mid1970s and conceivably as early as 1971.

The indirect reference came when the AEC disclosed for the first time that it has set "late 1971" as the target date for fullspeed production in its program for providing "the new capability and increased capacity" for producing nuclear intercontinental ballistic missiles.

A key objective in this expansion program is sharply geared-up production of Spartan and Sprint missiles for the Sentinel system, a "thin" antiballistic missile system designed in part to cope with any early threat from Red China.

The AEC's reference to the development of new nonnuclear components for possible use in various kinds of atomic weapons came in this terse statement in a section of the report dealing with weapons development during the past year, including underground testing.

Lions Sign to Donate Eyes

The Lions Club at their noon meeting this week, gave a program on Eye Tissue Bank, of the University of Missouri at Columbia.

It was explained by members of the committee, Earl Cook and Raymond Wright.

The eye tissue program is the major program sponsored by the International Lions organization, whose members have been responsible for receiving thousands of eye tissue to hospitals all over the world, to be transplanted to persons who have had serious eye trouble.

The eye tissue program has had such a success, that a case is known where a tissue was given to a totally blind person, and after his death was willed to a second and third person.

Wright explained that hospital facilities for removal of eyeplants, in both operations and transportation, will now give the best of service. An eye tissue removal must be made within four to six hours after death.

Many members of the local Lions club, in the past three years, have offered eye tissue to the worldwide bank.

David Blount, a new florist in the city, was introduced to the members.

Buckner Showing Is Tomorrow

In yesterday's edition of The Daily Standard, the date was inadvertently left off an advertisement for the Buckner-Ragsdale store, which is having a special clothes showing Saturday by Ted McArthur of Storrs-Schaefer, Cincinnati.

Search Continues For Fritts Youth

The search continues for 17-year-old Bennie Fritts, Kevil, Ky., who apparently drowned, when the car in which he was a passenger went into the Northcutt ditch Wednesday night on Interstate 57 a half mile east of I-55.

Two members of the Mississippi County Rescue Squad, Mike Bryant and Ronnie Chambers, spent several hours Thursday searching the channel in a boat, and with a steel bar and grappling hooks. They covered more than a mile downstream.

Another crew began this morning dragging the ditch farther south. The ditch runs into the Mississippi river at New Madrid.

Scott County Sheriff John Dennis and a number of deputies, as well as the father of the youth, John Fritts, assisted in the search.

The accident happened when the father lost control of his car while passing a large truck.

Huge Viet Red Base Uncovered

SAIGON (AP) — American air cavalrymen have uncovered a huge North Vietnamese base spread over four square miles northwest of Saigon. U.S. officers said they think it was being built in preparation for a winter-spring offensive.

The base is believed to be the largest ever uncovered in the war annd could accommodate perhaps 5,000 or more enemy troops. It contained hundreds of bunkers, a large underground hospital, dining halls, a bicycle repair shop, and a command post.

Troops of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division came on the base while on a sweep along jungle trails in the long-time Viet Cong stronghold known as War Zone C. The base was found some 53 miles northwest of Saigon nd 14 miles south of the Cambodian border.

Lt. Col. Frank Henry of Franklin, N.C., told AP photographer Rick Merron during a survey of the area that his troops had already counted 354 bunkers of various sizes and that he estimates there are 750 to 1,000 bunkers in the whole area.

"They've been doing a lot of work on this complex in the last month," Henry said. "We think they were preparing for the coming offensive down South," meaning attacks on U.S. and South Vietnamese installations closer to Saigon and possibly on the capital itself.

Merron flew over the area in a helicopter and said the triple-canopied jungle made it invisible from the air.

A captured North Vietnamese told the air cavalrymen that there was something in the area. He said he knew of a hospital but couldn't pinpoint it.

The air cavalrymen were turning up bunkers so fast that engineers called in to blow them up were hard put to keep up.

"This is an impossible job," said one engineer." It will take us weeks to blow them all up effectively."

"One of the bunkers had curtains in it; it must have been some wheel's bunker," said Capt. Henry A. Colavita of Arlington, Va.

The hospital complex "was brand new, still in he construction process at the time," said Colavita, but "we didn't see too many signs of recent use" in other parts of the bunker complex.

Colavita, commander of one of the two Air Cav companies searching the area, said his men also found enough enemy documents to fill two sandbags. Intelligence officers looked the documents over and said they indicated that the area was a "logistical supply center" for North Vietnamese troops.

The Americans said the only opposition they encourntered came from three North Vietnamese soldiers, all of whom were killed.

Little battlefield action was reported again today, but a 13-year-old girl and 19-year-old boy were killed in terrorist bombings on the northern edge of Saigon this morning. Authorities said 14 other girls were wounded when explosive charges attached to bicycles or motorcycles were set off in a parking lot outside a girl's school nd in a street in front of a nearby government center for Communist defectors.

Despite the lull in large - scale ground fighting, the U.S. Command indicated it thinks a Viet Cong threat is building up in the Mekong Delta near Can Tho, the biggest city in the rice bowl and the nerve center for military operations south of Saigon.

Thirty six U.S. B52 bombers dropped more than 1,000 tons of explosives on "concentrations of enemy troops in a base area and bunker complex west of Can Tho" between noon Thursday and noon today.

Fliers returning from one raid reported triggering 11 secondary explosions, indicating hits on ammunition stores.

The U.S. Command took the security wraps off another operation in the northern provinces, this one in the foothills 25 miles southwest of Da Nang.

I-55 Extension in Bid Call

Another section in the gradual extension of Interstate Highway 55 southward will be included in the Missouri State Highway Commission's bid call scheduled Feb. 14.

The commission reported I-55 will be extended southward 9.3 miles from its present terminus with Highway 61 south of Festus to the Ste. Genevieve County line.

The work will require grading, bridging, culverts, signing and two 24-foot wide concrete pavements.

A 361-foot plate girder underpass will be built at Highway 61, and a 368-foot continuous I-beam bridge will be erected over the Missouri-Illinois Railroad.

Twin 228-foot continuous plate girder bridges are to be erected over Plattin Creek, a 272-foot continuous I-beam structure over Highway 61, a 136-foot continuous I-beam structure over Isle DeBois Creek, a double 10-foot by 10-foot concrete box culvert at a branch of Muddy Creek, a 338-foot continuous plate girder underpass at Route AA, a triple 11-foot by 7-foot concrete box culvert at Saline Creek, a 252-foot continuous plate girder underpass at Danby Road, a 210-foot like underpass at Route TT and twin 201-foot continuous plate girder bridges over Isle DeBois Creek.

Another interstate project for which bids will be received is the substructure for the new Mississippi River bridge near Caruthersville. This project is approximately seven-tenths of a mile in length.

The bid call also includes the painting and cleaning of the Mississippi River bridge at Cape Girardeau.

The highway commission in announcing the call, said it is expected to total $42½ million, a record sum. The road work extends over 135 miles of highways in 22 counties.

Stoddard County Judge Opposes Court Expenditures

DEXTER — The controversy over the payment of part of the salary of the Circuit Judge by the county courts of Stoddard and Dunklin counties flared into the open this week when one of the Stoddard County Court members issued a signed statement, declaring that one of the county court members had "changed his mind" and would now vote 'yes' only after his son had been charged with a felony in the Circuit Court.

Jack Ward, Associated Judge from the County Court, First District, issued the signed statement, in which he charged that both Leffler Lee and Clyde Henson had changed their minds at the last minute on the proposal. Lee's son is now charged with a felony in the Stoddard County Circuit Court as a result of the recent gambling raid in Dexter.

Circuit Judge William H. Billings, who had not had an opportunity to read Ward's prepared statement, but who was aware of the controversy, said only that "any man who questions the integrity of this Circuit Court will find himself being asked by the Grand Jury to prove those charges."

The statement by Ward is as follows:

"TO THE PEOPLE OF STODDARD COUNTY—

"As you know, I have been opposed to the payment by the Stoddard County court of any of the salary of the Circuit Judge. The Circuit Judge's salary is set by law, paid by the state, and I have always felt that this was as it should be.

"But I was outvoted on this proposal when Judge Billings became our Circuit Judge, and the Stoddard County Court has contributed $1500 in additional salary for him. The Dunklin County Court has done the same.

"A few weeks ago, when this matter was again to be considered by the two county courts, both Leffler Lee and Judge Henson indicated to me that they were opposed to any further payments to the Judge, and said they would vote against it. Naturally I was pleased.

"But it seems strange to me, that since the son of one of our County Court Judges has been charged with a serious crime, Judge Lee has now indicated that he will vote "yes" for the additonal salary for the Judge. And Judge Henson has done likewise, saying that he might want a "personal favor" from the Circuit Judge one of these days and did not want to offend him now.

"As late as last Wednesday, a meeting of the county judges of Dunklin and Stoddard counties (six of us), met in Kennett. Out of the six, five indicated that they would vote "no" for any additional "tip" for the Circuit Judge, over and above his regular salary. The only person who did not say he would vote "no" was Leffler Lee, who had no comment and did not say how he would vote.

"I think the people of Stoddard County are entitled to know this information. I have been opposed to the additional "tip" for the Circuit Judge since it was started. I do not believe in it in principle.

"I do not question he honesty of the Circuit Court or the honesty of the Circuit Judge, but I believe the people have the right to know what is going on and how their tax money is going to be spent."

Record Number of Jurors

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Juror prospects came and went at a rapid rate in the Clay Shaw trial on a charge of conspiring to murder President John F. Kennedy.

"It already is a record for the city of New Orleans," said Criminal Dist. Court Judge Edward A. Haggerty. "No case in this city has ever interviewed so many prospective jurors."

Of 687 checked off in nine days of examinations, 11 willing survivors were in the jury box today, waiting for one more juror and two alternates to be found.

Having exhausted the venires of all eight sections of the court, Haggerty sent process servers hustling about the city Thursday night in an effort to summon 150 more prospects.

Sirhan Takes Stand Tuesday

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sirhan Bishara Sirhan's murder trial, after nearly four weeks of preliminaries, finally shows promise of some spark: The defendant takes the witness stand next Tuesday.

His appearance will be brief, chief defense attorney Grant B. Cooper told newsmen after announcing in court Thursday that Sirhan and his mother Mary will testify about their finances.

The judge has recessed the trial until Tuesday.

The slight, 24-year-old Jordanian is charged with murdering Sen. Robert F. Kennedy last June just after Kennedy won California's Democratic presidential primary.

Cooper contends Sirhan, "a poor man," was indicted by grand jurors of above-average means who, racially and otherwise, don't represent a community cross-section. A defense motion seeks to quash the indictment.

We have in hand the Hayti Missouri Herald of January 30th 1969 which has their city financial statement printed in full and in detail. This is what the city officials of Sikeston should do if they want to comply with the law.

Maybe we are wrong and that they don't care about complying with the law. Maybe they do not want the citizens to know how much money they receive and who gets it and for what.

You don't reckon they have a joker somewhere in the city's operation do you. We wonder.

HAS IT BEEN DECIDED?

Dr. John Weaver, president of the University of Missouri, said the other day that unless the school's budget requests are restored, a proposed new medical school at Kansas City cannot be started.

Governor Hearnes, commenting on the proposed medical school, noted that he wanted to have a proposed agreement with the City of Kansas City and Jackson County in final form before committing the state to a long-term expenditure for a new medical school on the western side of the state.

Judging from these two statements, it would appear as if Missouri is almost committed to the establishment of a second state - supported medical school, this one to be located in Kansas City.

As far as we know, the only two groups thus far giving approval to the medical school plan have been the Commission on Higher Education and the university's Board of Curators.

If that's all it takes to establish a multi - million - dollar medical school in Missouri, then we want to submit a request for a third state - supported school in the Bootheel.

We fell certain that Northeast Missouri might like to have such a state facility, and perhaps the Kirksville Chamber of Commerce would be interested in making application. Then, why not place one in Southwest Missouri, or perhaps a couple down there since both Springfield and Joplin are pretty fair sized cities.

We have stated our position on the proposed Kansas City medical school before: we're against it for a variety of reasons. We believe they are good reasons, and they range all the way from the fact that the state cannot afford such an institution to the fact that Missouri, if it wishes to train more doctors, can do the job much more economically by utilizing the private medical schools that are now struggling to remain in existence.

Perhaps we're wrong, but we kind of had the idea that the General Assembly might have something to say about the idea, and hopefully might say something sensible about the subject, such as "No."

We also like the statement made by state Sen. J. F. (Pat) Patterson of Caruthersville, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, who told Dr. Weaver the other day, "You're going to have trouble ever building another medical school until we have some indication it s going to do rural Missouri some good."

Sen. Patterson's warning gives us some reassurance, for we were beginning to think that everyone in the state was willing to buy this Kansas City Chamber of Commerce project without so much as a question.

APOLLO 8 BREAKS EARTH'S SHACKLES

Not since the assassination of John F. Kennedy and its aftermath have so many millions around the world been electronic eyewitnesses to one of the great unfolding dramas of human history.

Happily, not horror and anguish but pride and awe are the emotions connected with the flight of Apollo 8. Not despair of the sorry condition of man but renewed faith in what his brain and will can accomplish is its legacy. The only regret is that President Kennedy, who seven short years ago committed this nation to a landing on the moon, will not see American spacemen achieve that goal.

Apollo 8, of course, was not designed for a moon landing. Many obstacles remain to be overcome before that mission can be launched. But there can be no doubt now that one of man's oldest dreams is about to be realized, perhaps in only a few months. Unforeseen setbacks could delay it; nothing can prevent it.

Superlatives fail in any attempt to describe Apollo 8, not only in its broad scope but in all its technical details.

By this time, most Americans are familiar with the stupendous and unprecedented statistics associated with the Saturn V rocket, statistics that are about as mentally assimilable as the complexities of the national debt.

For instance, that each of its five main engines burned 9,000 pounds of fuel a second; that each of the eight retrorockets that separated the first stage from the rest of the vehicle generated more power than the Redstone rocket that boosted America's first tiny satellite into orbit in 1958; that the entire rocket contained 5.6 million individual parts - plus three more, the most previous of all; astronauts Borman, Lovell and Anders.

Even seeing was hardly believing. One moment, a 6-2 million - pound skyscraper was standing on a launch pad in Florida. The next, it was soaring off into the blue, shaking the earth and rattling windows hundreds of miles away.

There were all the complex and epic decisions that had to be made, the precise guidance and performance margins that had to be held. For instance, the spacecraft, initially spun out of earth orbit at 24,700 miles an hour, had to lead the moon's speed by a mere 68 miles an hour, or either crash into that onrushing mass or be deflected into helpless orbit around the sun.

And yet, when the moment came for the decision unique in history, the command snapped out in prosaic, space-age jargon: "You are go for TLI (Trans - Lunar Injection)."

Yes, "breaking the surly bonds of earth" is one of the ancient dreams of man, or at least of those men in each generation who dream grandiose dreams. But there is another, more ancient and more universal, dream that is symbolized each year at this time.

Some thought it inappropriate that Apollo 8 should be launched at Christmastime. It could not have been more appropriate.

The world's millions, focusing their thoughts and hopes on three men so far out in space, and seeing as they saw just how small and lonely this one-world really is amid the stars, have been given a message that is a reaffirmation of the one the heavens announced 2,000 years ago.

Merry Christmas from the moon, Peace on earth, good will to men.

It takes a rather long memory now to recall that great debacle -- the Depression of the 1930's--and some of the events that took place during that time. One of those events was the passage of a law known as the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935. Perhaps the most historically noteworthy feature of the Act was the "death sentence" provision which resulted in dozens of electric company systems being broken up into separate operating entities. In the atmosphere of the 30's when it was politically popular to castigate "big business" holding companies and often the men who headed them were dealt with harshly, the economics and efficiency of the holding company principle were submerged in acrimonious partisan debate.

After more than 30 years, evolution has gone full cycle. Public policy as represented by federal regulatory authority stresses the advantages of what now is called "power poolin" and interconnection of electric systems to achieve greater realibility of electric service. Rising costs brought on by inflation have made mergers in the investor-owned electric industry as inevitable as mergers in other industries. The economies that are possible through corporate affiliation are leading to what amounts to a rebirth of the holding company, and power consumers will be the primaary beneficiaries. The lesson seems to be that economic principles have a way of rising above the shifting winds of policitcs.

END IS THE SAME

There is a school of though among "consumer protectors" that would place stringent curbs on promotion and advertising on the theory that it would save consumers a few cents on their grocery bills.

A short time ago, a noted columnist of high repute observed, "At least four states have banned trading stamps in recent months..." The fact is, according to a spokesman for a major trading stamp company, "The only state which has banned the use of trading stamps by retailers is Kansas, and that state's law has been on the another point, the columnist observed, "On average, 2 cents out of each dollar you spend in a supermarket offering trading stamps goes strictly for the stamps.' To this the same trading stamp company spokesman replied, 'Unquestionably, all of a retailer's costs are passed along to the consumer. But it is a distortion of the facts to imply...that 98 cents worth of groceries at a nonstamp store costs one dollar at a stamp store.'

We have only to look around us to find plenty of evidence that the free market, competitive economic system works -- and works better than any system that has heretofore been devised. Such things as a promotion and advertising are an integral part of that system -- a system that is closely interwoven into the whole fabric of political and economic liberty. For example, freedom of the press would be short-lived indeed if curbs were placed on the freedom of promotion and advertising. As has often been pointed out, freedom is indivisible. It can be destroyed in the name of controlling inflation just as surely as it can be destroyed by a dictator and the firing squad. The end is the same.

JUSTICE FOR OTTO OTEPKA?

The coming of a new administration in Washington has revived hopes that Justice will at last be done for Otto Otepka.

Otepka was a dedicated State Department officer, who placed service for his country above personal advancement. In 1960, as chief of evaulations in the Department's security office, he was asked to approve waivers of security checks on several new State Department appointees. When he insisted on following regulations, well aware that in the past, some extremely bad security risks had been appointed to important positions, he was harassed, demoted, and then fired in 1963.

Otepka immediately began to fight for reinstatement. Finally in January of 1968, a Senate committee issued a report which described "extraordinary, calculated harassment" of Otepka by top State Department officials. He was reinstated in the Department but received a harsh reprimand and was not allowed to perform any security duties.

Otepka realized that his victory would be hollow if he was not restored to his former position in the security office and planned an appeal to the federal courts.

This appeal would not be necessary if the Nixon administration recognizes the need for this kind of security officer and reinstates Otepka in his former position. During his campaign, Mr. Nixon indicated tha he knew the importance of tight security in the State Department and promised to "clean house" there.

Mr. Nixon has referred to Otto Otepka as a man "who has served his country so long and so well." Patriots should hope that this dedicated public servant will be reinstated in the position where he can continue this service to his country. HLH

NEW YORK (AP) —Curbstone comments of a Pavement Plato:

You're not in step with the times today unless you have a furrowed brow from worrying about the so-called "generation gap."

This is one of those wrap-up sociological terms, such as "meaningful dialogue," which have become so common in our society lately, phrases which bloom madly in cocktail party conversations for a few months or perhaps years, then die out.

Perhaps, however, before both these currently popular phrases go out of style and depart into the limbo of language, we should hold a "meaningful dialogue" on the "generation gap." Just what is that gap? It refers to the deepening gulf— oops, there's another one of those cozy intellectual terms— between America's young and its middle-aged.

One might dismiss this gap tolerantly as a mere matter of a difference in age, and let it go at that. After all, girls and women, separated by 25 years, don't usually go to pajama parties together; men separated by 25 years don't usually play handball or tennis together.

Youth naturally tends to flock with youth, those in their middle years with others in their middle years.

But the present generation gap goes beyond the normal gap which historically has separated all previous generations from one another. The gap is deeper, wider, and reflects a bitter emotional estrangement more than a mere difference in age.

Every generation is something of a mystery to the one that it follows and the one that it precedes. But customarily the estrangement is the result of friendly misunderstandings and there are areas of reconciliation and avenues that lead to mutual acceptance.

The danger of the present generation gap is that there appear to be fewer touching points of agreement than existed in the past. Today's youth seems to regard the middle-aged not as misunderstanding friends but as actual or potential enemies, relics of an outworn social system who seek not to help them but to crush them. Their nowtrite slogan eloquently voices this suspicion: "Don't trust anybody over 30."

This slogan is peculiarly annoying to a modern father. He doesn't feel he is inviting his son or daughter to dwell in a rusting rut but to a better way of life he himself did not know when young. He is bewildered by the repudiation of his own values by his own children.

Scarred by a great depression and a great world war, he graduated from school or college into a world that had no job waiting for him and appeared to be indifferent to his welfare. Therefore he puts a high premium now on comfort and security, which he has achieved after hard, struggling years.

But his son today, with a job waiting for him and a welcome mat spread for him by the world, often doesn't want either that job or to dwell in that world as it stands.

"What do the kids of today really want then?" many a puzzled, frustrated, despairing parent asks.

The rebelling youth of today don't seem to know either. If they know their real aims, they are unable to state them clearly. Do they merely want to tear down what exists and blindly trust that something better will, without plan, inevitably arise? To the middle-aged such an attitude is a gamble in ignorance, a gamble doomed to failure.

There the generation gap stands now, and if anyone knows a sure way to end that gap by building fresh bonds of trust and affection between the generations he has yet to express it in a "a meaningful dialogue."

Washington - Merry Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson say: Peru woos USSR as backstop against U.S. retaliation; crime reports warn assassination could become way of life; presidential assassins follow a pattern

WASHINGTON--The Government of Peru, which hasn't had diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia for years, is now frantically pulling wires to patch up diplomatic relations. The motive is to be able to jockey the USA off against the USSR following Peruvian seizure of American oil properties and possibly copper companies.

The new Nixon administration, which hasn't yet been able to find an Assistant Secretary of State to handle latin American affairs, has until April 9 to patch things up.

After April 9 the fat will be in the fire, and you may see the first country on the South American continent--Peru--go the way of Fidel Castro.

April 9 is the date on which it is mandatory under the Hickenlooper Amendment to cut off the Peruvian sugar quota and all aid to Peru in retaliation for the seizure of the International Petroleum company by the Peruvian military.

The military have been armed by the United States and many of them trained in American military schools in the past. However, they constitute the most serious threat to U.S.-Peruvian relations in a century. Some of the young officers have been studying the doctrines of Mao Tse-Tung and Fidel Castro. They are vehemently Anti-American.

Note 1--It was a previous Republican administration under Eisenhower which let Cuba slip into the hands of Castro by too much hand-sitting. While the Cuban revolution drifted from bad to worse, the State Department under John Foster dulles did nothing.

Note 2--Peru has sent a first class diplomat, Fernando Berkemyer, to Washington as ambassador to try to appease the situation. Berkemeyer long served as ambassador in Washington, and single-handed negotiated the sugar quota which Peru now enjoys. He shunned the lobbyists hired by other countries. Today, however, in view of rapidly escalating poltical events and the do-nothingism of the new administration, he is helpless.

--Assassination Study--

The national commission on the cause and prevention of violence has been studying the 81 assassination attempts on the lives of American presidents and prominent office-holders and has concluded that assassination may be becoming a way of life in the United States.

The commission discovered that "presidential assassins appear to have much in common.

"Of the nine persons who made the eight assassination attempts (on presidents)," the report observes, "all were caucasian males, smaller than average in stature, and obsessed with some cause of grievance that appears to be almost delusional.

"Except for John Wilkes Booth, all were virtually unknown; five were born abroad but were U.S. citizens at the time of the attacks; and four had tried marriage only to fail within a short period. The socio-economic status of seven deteriorated during the year prior to the assassination attempt. All used firearms, and all but one used handguns, in their attacks. Thus evidence suggests that presidential assassins may fit a psychological pattern."

"The experience of other nations suggests that once assassination becomes part of a nation's political culture its eradication may be extremely difficult," warns the unpublished crime report. "The tragic murders of several national leaders in recent years have made Americans painfully aware of the vulnerability of prominent figures and have raised fears that the United States may face growing threat of political assassination.

"As several of our presidents have observed," the report continues, "it is difficult to prevent a determined assassin from killing a president, particularly when a mentally disturbed social isolate acts alone to avenge some real or imagined wrong."

The commission believes, however, that the presidential risk can be reduced by throwing obstacles in the way of possible assasins.

"It may be," suggests the report, "that presidential assassins are not nearly so determined to carry out their attacks as has been commonly supposed. Zangara would not leave the warm climate of Flordia to carry out his plan to assassinate President Hoover; Shrank chose not to attempt assassination in Chicago in order to protect the city's reputation; and Guiteau postponed his attempt to kill President Garfield because the president's wife was present. Efforts to increase the difficulty of attacking a president may therefore yield significant results even though they will not deter the strongly determined assassin.

There also appears to be a political pattern behind the assassination trend.

"Several groups in our society," warns the report, "are impatient for, or threatened by, rapid social change. They tend to see the government as indifferent to their needs and even as punitive towards them. The members of such groups are generally of lower socio-economic status than the rest of society.

"The task force is studying such groups--both black and white--and is paying particular attention to those who might be said to be part of a 'white ghetto.' The national advisory commission on rural poverty has concluded that substantial numbers of white rural Americans are living in a state of poverty and cultural deprivation comparable to that experienced by many black americans; a similar conclusion might be warranted for some white urban residents. It is from these 'white ghettos' that many extremist and racist organizations such as the Ku Klux Klan recruit their members."

Meanwhile, the commission is continuing its study "to illuminate the fundamental reasons why individuals and groups choose violence against prominent persons as the means of solving their political or personal problems.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

1969's Newest Twist:

Teamsters Talk of Rushing for Guaranteed Lifetime Jobs

Washington, D.C.: -- As Jimmy Hoffa rounds out the second year of his prison industries mattress-making career in the Lewisburg penitentiary, his colleagues in the freer world develop new daring concepts, now that the Teamsters Brotherhood has reached the 2.1 million-member mark without his help.

Not that they've changed their habits or habitat -- they have just held their high command session in Flordia -- but they are adding intellectuals and new dimensions to their old coffers of money and muscle.

To prove that there can be something new uder the collective bargaining sun, Teamsters leaders now are discussing the concept of a "guaranteed working lifetime wage."

There has been the guaranteed work day and work week, and there is the spreading guaranteed working annual wage. But not to my recollection has any influential labor man, or bloc of labor leaders, suggested a guaranteed lifetime job.

It is odd that this concept should come from a massive union which would rather fight than switch from traditional table pounding. But come it did from one of its officials, a newcomer to the naional labor front, a tall, husky, tanned Southerner who sometimes has the mien and oratory of a preacher and sometimes the camaraderie a golf course pro.

Arriving as he does to the Teamsters national marble hall here in the post-Hoffa era, he is virtually as anonymous inside the Brotherhood as outside.

He is Weldon L. Mathis, now administrative assistant to acting president, General Vice President Frank (Fitz) Fitzsimmons. The Hoffa stand-in found Mathis in Atlanta and cottoned to him. Since then, he has become the Brotherhood's intellectual in residence.

Some weeks ago Mathis represented the Teamsters at a federal collective bargaining indoctrination seminar in Atlanta. It is there that he spoke of guaranteeing a man his job for life as the challenges to automation.

There may be similar paternal concepts in Latin America and other foreign labor laws. Some latin nations guarantee a worker he will be kept on for life if he survives the tests of the first 10 years of his employment.

But this is by statute -- not by force of contract bargaining. The nearest move toward this in the U.S. is the guaranteed annual wage. The United Auto Workers now have a complex system which guaranteeds a laid-off worker a full year's pay.

Already there is concern over who will receive such a guarantee -- the man with the lowest seniority or the older worker who says, why should I stay on the assembly line when Joe Smith, who has been working here 10 or 15 years less than I have, gets paid a full year for not working?

A similar system of supplementary unemployment benefits virtually guarantees a year's income to a laid-off steel worker. Now most of the Atlantic Coast longshoremen will be guaranteed pay for 2080 hours a year (40 hours a week for 52 weeks) whether they work or not.

Now the Teamsters thesis, developed during the first days of the new year, will become the newest of conversation pieces during 1969 and bargaining gambits in swiftly succeeding years -- just as did the once scoffed at "GAW" -- guaranteed annual wage.

"We may have reached the point," said Mathis, "where unions must demand that the job of the worker be guaranteed, a point where attrition is not merely a consideration of new equipment and new methods.

"The auto workers have reached the mecca of the guaranteed annual wage. Cannot we suspect we have reached the point where we must negotiate something equivalent to a guaranteed working lifetime wage?"

Then referring to the basic issue of the longshoremen's conflict, Mathis philosophized:

"While unions generally and with rare exceptions have gone along with automation and technological advance...perhaps we are now operating in a new environment which is simply a moment of truth."

True, it is early in this dialogue. True, this is the concept of one union -- but it is a gargantuan one, seeking its place in the community of respectability. It can begin its push anywhere -- in a small transfer terminal, a service shop or a warehouse.

Then it can flashfire to the big haulers and their sprawling over-the-road Van fleets.

Mark the earliest days of 1969 as the days of the beginning of the push for lifetime guaranteed jobs.

The Gospel Visitor

By: REEDUS M. BAUGHER
The Work Of The Church In Evangelism.

It has been God's plan from eternity to save the world through preaching the gospel. Every man is in need of salvation. (Rom. 3:9-10:23). The gospel of Christ is God's power to save. (Rom. 1:16; James 1:21). The church is God's agency in this work of preaching the gospel, to the lost. It is compared to a householder who goes out to hire laborers into the vineyard; and also is said to be the pillar and ground of the truth. (Matt. 20:1-16; 1 Tim. 3:14-15).

God's plans in this work of evangelism, does not include the activating of the universal church. Rather, local congregations were the only organization through which this work of the church was done in New Testament days. The church at Thessalonica and Philippi, were examples to other churches, and became outstanding in this work of evangelism. And these not only acted independently, but sent directly to Paul on the mission field, and nor through a human organization or even another church. (1 Thess. 1:3-8; Phil. 1:3-5; 2:25-30; 4:14-20; 2 Cor. 11:8-9). Study carefully the above scriptures. And these serve as approved examples of how the church does the work of evangelism, and certainly is a pattern for us to follow today. No church did its work, either evangelism or benevolence, through either a human organization or another church. And thus, human organizations, to do any work for the church, is not only nnecessary but violates these Bible principles. Antioch, Corinth, and the churches of Macedonia, each made up their own contribution, selected their own messenger or messengers, and sent directly to Jerusalem; when this church was in need. (Acts 11:27-30; 1 Cor. 16:1-3; 2 Cor. 8:2; 8:19-23). Note: Philippi was one of the Macedonian churches yet acted indepently in contributing to Paul through her own messenger Epaphroditus. (Phil. 4:14-18).

The church is the only organization designed by the wisdom of God, from eternity, for the work of evangelism. And because of its eternal design we know that God precluded and excluded any other arrangement of man's. If not why didn't Paul in the revelation given to him make known, to us another arrangement that, when we read we can understand God's will in the matter? (Eph. 3:1-4). God planned the church from eternity to manifest His wisdom, and it is to hold forth the word of life, to the best of its ability as a local congregation of Christians. (Eph. 3:8-11; Phil. 2:12-15). The church has fellowship with the preacher in the "furtherance of the gospel," and thus, fruit abounds to the account of the congregation. (Phil. 1:5; 4:18). Any substitute order or additional order for such work arranged by the will and wisdom of men would be a rejection of God's ways.

Crusades Planned

National Baptists, General Baptists, and Southern Baptists of this area will be engaged in evangelistic crusades in March and April of 1969. These Crusades will be promoted under the general banner, "The Crusade of the Americas." National, General and Southern Baptist bodies are a part of 42 Conventions, Unions, and Associations in North, Central, and South Americas engaged in one of the greatest evangelistic and missionary efforts in the Western Hemiphere and probably one of the greatest to be witnessed in the world. Over 25 million Baptists, directly or indirectly, will be involved.

The Crusade of the Americas was born in Brazil. In the state of Sao Paulo, Brazil in 1963 a great revival of national scope was witnessed, resulting in 42,000 converts and 500 new churches established in two years. The spirit behind this revival was that of Dr. Ruben Lopes. The Crusade of the Americas was conceived by him. He is a native Brazilian, pastor of the Vila Marianna Baptist Church of Sao Paulo and president of the Brazilian Baptist Convention for the tenth time.

In 1965 Dr. Lopes visited various Baptist bodies in their conventions and challenged them with a Crusade of the Americas. He presented the same challenge to the Baptist World Alliance and again won approval. The various Baptist bodies in North America have planned the Crusade in their own way. A Continental Congress on Evangelism was held in Washington D. C. in October of 1968. Many of the local churches in this area affiliated with National Baptists, General Baptists, and Southern Baptists will conduct their crusades within or near the suggested dates March 16-30, 1969. Other cooperating bodies are: Baptist Federation of Canada, Baptist General Conference, General Association of Regular Baptists, North American Baptist General Conference, and Seventh Day Baptist General Conference.

Birthday Luncheon

Mrs. Lela Beason was hostess for a birthday luncheon in honor of Mrs. Ruth Hall.

Those attending were Mrs. Estalee Stovers, Mrs. Bennie Walker, Mrs. Margaret Clifford, and Nola Cantrell.

The world's largest building was completed in 1966, says The World Almanac. The huge structure, part of the NASA space program and located near Cape Kennedy in Florida, is called the Vehicle Assembly Building (VAB). It has an enclosed area of 129 million cubic feet—almost as large as the combined volume of the Pentagon and the Chicago Merchandise Mart. Its fire-protection system requires a reservoir of one million gallons. Completely air-conditioned it has doors so large that a 40-story building could pass through them.

Sexy Singers Sing, Play

BY BARBARA LACY

Charley Bailey, the French equivalent to the boy-next-door with a good natured grin and glasses, and his seven sexy singers gave Sikeston concert goers their best entertainment of the season. From the opening "Jois de Vivre" to the concluding encore, they never lost the audience. Their songs were unusual, fast paced, and cleverly staged. A listeners' knowledge of French would have been helpful, but the Frenchmen with their gestures made translations unnecessary. They mimicked, they haromized, they sang and played a variety of instruments, piano, guitar, saxaphone, flute.

They wore hats, carried towels, played cards on the streets of Paris. The audience of 200 was fascinated.

Their "homage to a great man," the one reverant spot on the program was a delightful blend of Walt Disney'S lightest tunes done solumnly in French and ending with a moment of darkness "Good Night Mr. Disney," "Bon Suit, Monsieur Disney."

At the end, after a standing ovation and an encore, the audience remained seated. They were polite enough not to demand a surly tired singing group to sing some more; but they didn't want to leave.

Ann Landers

Cocktail Necklines Not Appropriate for School

Dear Ann Landers: I've been dating Joyce for six weeks. She's attractive, not educated, but she really knows how to make a guy feel important.

On our third date Joyce told me she had been in a detention home for picking up items in a department store. Last week we visited my brother in the hospital. The next day the nurse called to ask if I had taken Hal's watch "for safekeeping." It was on his night table and now they can't find it.

Last night when I got home from a date with Joyce, my wallet was missing I'm not concernedabout the $40. It's the credit cards and driver's license I need.

I could fall in love with Joyce if I let myself go. So far we've just exchanged a few kisses. I hate to think what I'm thinking. Any advice? — NO I.D.

Dear No: If you've been exchanging kisses with this girl I suggest you count your teeth. Joyce is either a kleptomaniac or a thief, probably the latter, since kleptomaniacs steal items they have no use for. Before you propose, I hope you will consider what life would be like for the kiddies when their mother is in the klink.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 15 and already 38-24-38. My aunt gives me her nice clothes when she gets tired of them. In the last batch was a beautiful cocktail sweater. I took off the beads and it looks great. The only thing is, Ann, the sweater is cut sort of low. It's not too tight and I am careful not to bend over, but like I said, it has a low neckline

I wore the sweater to schoo last week and two of my best friends said it looked "cheap." I don't know if they are jealous or if they said it for my own good. It's a very expensive sweater and I'd like to keep wearing it, but I don't want to wreck my reputation. Can you advise me? — JACKPOT JANE

Dear Jackpot: Wear a white blouse under the sweater and you'll even be able to bend over if you want to. Cocktail necklines are not appropriate for school.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a girl, 16, not beautiful but better than average looking. Everyone says I have a nice personality. The trouble is I don't get asked out because I live in a dump. This neighborhood is so crummy you can't believe it.

Several guys at school seem to like me but the minute I give them my address they disappear forever. Mom and Dad are divorced and we have troubled paying the rent, so please don't tell me we should move. I know we should but we can't afford to. Just tell me what a girl is supposed to do when she can't get dates because she lives in a slum. — CHICKEN POX

Dear Chicken: Many a gal who lives in a swanky suburb has given her address to a boy and never heard from him again. Boys are interested in good company and they'll lgo any place to date a girl who is appealing. The problem is you, Toos, not your address. Take inventory and find out what's missing.

Do you feel ill at ease...out of it? Is everybody having a good time but you? Write for Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Of course, hurricanes bear girls' names; whoever heard of a male blowhard doing any damage?

Dogs Battle Tigers For Mules Title

POPLAR BLUFF — It'll be top seeded Sikeston and unseeded but upset minded Nellyville battling for the championship of the 17th annual Poplar Bluff invitational tournament title here tonight at 8:30 p.m. The game is to be preceeded by the consolation match that finds Poplar Bluff facing Charleston, game time is 7 p.m.

Sikeston lived up to its pre-tourney rating as it moved into the final, turning back host Poplar Bluff 46-36 last night behind the 16 point effort of guard Dennis Snelling.

Neelyville posted its second upset in two night's of action as it muscled its way past defending tournament champion Charleston, 74-58.

Coach N. P. McDaniel's crew connected on 14 of 28 free throws and out-rebounded the Mules as it headed to the finals, gaining its biggest lead in the second quarter when it out-scored the host, 13-5 for a 26-15 half time lead.

Steve Fowler scored half of the hosts' points connecting on eight field goals and two free throws for 18 points.

Neelyville used a tough defense and accurate shooting to start each half as it ended Charleston's hopes of claiming its third straight title.

Coach Charles Moffitt's Tigers opened the first half with a 22-7 first quarter lead, but found the Bluejays of coach Gary Wadlington knocking at the lead at half, 35-32.

The Tigers opened the second half in almost the same fashion as it did the first, out-scoring the jay 23-8, this time checking them in the final period for the victory.

Roy Fields had 30 points and 20 rebounds for the Tigers while Henry Hall scored 14 for the Jays top effort on offense.

Tonight's finals pit the district's top two centers, Sikeston's 6-5 Fred Towns and Neelyville's 6-5 Roy Fields in a rebounding and scoring battle as the two squads meet for top honors.

GIVE

In memory of Robert Y. Dixon, Jr. of Sikeston, friends may make donations to the Cancer Research Center in Columbia, Missouri.

Mr. Dixon died of cancer on Jan. 25, 1969 after a long and difficult battle against this incurable disease. He was given the very best of medical care and was the recipient of the wealth of medical knowledge concerning his disease.

Through research, some doors have been unlocked and some forms of cancer have become understood and conquered. Still many doors remain closed -- research and dedication will prove to be the keys to those doors. We are hopeful that, through our donations in memory of Bob, dedicated men and women will come closer to finding a way to end the suffering of other fine people who become victims of cancer.

Funds may be made payable to the Cancer Research Center; Robert Dixon Memorial and sent to Box 909 in Sikeston. Recognition of donations will be made to both donor and to the members of the Dixon family.

Another Question Of Sight

COVENTRY, England (AP) — This city—historically involved in a big sight hassle 900 years ago when the original Peeping Tom stole a squint at Lady Godiva—is again involved in a question of vision.

This time the issue is not over a nude lady riding horseback through Coventry's market place, but the color of the municipality's fire engines that almost daily race over Her Ladyship's original route.

Despite clanging bells and the fiery red with which the city's fire trucks have been daubed, car drivers and other citizens are having trouble in spotting them.

This has resulted in delays in getting to fires, traffic tieups and even collisions.

Finally, Coventry's chief Fire Office, A.A. Leese, blew the whistle and asked the Lanchester College of Technology to put to scientific test which color is the most arresting.

After sweating over hot spectroscopes for a year, the experts informed the fire department that red was not the perfect color for fire engines.

"Yellow," said the technocrats, "is the most psychologically unpleasant color of the spectrum to the human eye."

Being the most unpleasant, it is the most arresting.

Mizzou Meets Nebraska Saturday

COLUMBIA — "If we're going to declare ourselves in the race, this is it.

Coach Norm Stewart of Missouri isn't one to over-stress objectives. He's challenging his own ball-club, now 2-2 in conference outings, with the proposition they face in meeting Nebraska in Lincoln this Saturday night.

Coming off that game, the Missourians take on Colorado's front-runners here in Brewer field house on Monday night.

Against the Huskers, Ol' Mizzou should be buoyed by two recent league wins over Kansas and Iowa State -- both in Columbia. Nebraska, meantime, is winless in he Big Eight with four setbacks.

However, the Tigers can expect all kinds of pitfalls in the Coliseum -- especially after dropping a Big Eight tournament decision to Coach Joe Cipriano's gang. Nebraska whipped Mizzou, 76-70, at Kansas City.

Size could be a Tiger bugaboo in the upcoming weekend which will determine Missouri's role in the Big Eight derby. Nebraska's Jim Brooks (6-8) and Leroy Chalk (6-7) are tough customers around the basket, offensively and defensively.

Colorado's giants are led by 7-ft. 2 Ron Smith, but the Buffs-- rated No. 17 nationally -- have a couple of 6-10 backup men as reserves -- and all-purpose Cliff Meely at 6-7. The Buffaloes take a 14-2 record overall, and 4-0 in league play, on their road trip to Lawrence and Columbia.

"It's a crucial trip for Colorado, too," Stewart points out. "If they can win both games, they will be sitting pretty, with just three road games left."

Missouri shows a 9-6 record, while the Nebraskans are 7-9 for all games.

Co-leaders of the Tiger attack are Don Tomlinson and backliner Dave Pike. Tomlinson in averaging 17 points a game, and Pike 13.1. As a team, the Black and Gold is shooting 48.7 percent from the field, best in Tiger annals.

Former U.S. Open champions Jack Fleck, Tommy Bolt and Gene Littler failed to qualify for the last 36 holes of the recent championship. Fleck and Bolt missed by one shot with 149s. Littler missed by three with 151.

Matthews Seek Third Straight New Madrid County Title

GIDEON — Matthews goes after its third straight New Madrid County tournament title tonight at 8 p.m. when it battles host Gideon, as both teams lived up to its pre-tourney ratings. The game is to be preceeded by the consolation battle that finds Portageville and Lilbourn battling, beginning at 6:30.

Sharp passing and a display of accurate shooting last night sparked Matthews into the finals as it toppled Portageville 59-52, after which Gideon showed its rebounding strength and shooting ability in beating Lilbourn, 62-51.

Coach Dale Harrison's Bulldogs led only once in its battle with the defending tournament champs, as it took a 2-0 lead on Kirk Stewart's 16 foot shot to open the game but found itself down 12-4 three minutes later and was never able to overtake the quick Pirates.

Matthews had somewhat better success against the Bulldogs zone defense than New Madrid had Tuesday night as the Pirates moved the ball quickly and hit the open man for numerous layins during the first half.

The Pirates held its biggest lead of the game with 3:34 remaining in the game, 51-34 to only see the Dogs press and close to within seven points with a minute to go, but Portageville was forced to go after the ball and kept the Pirates at the charity line that final minute as they took a 59-52 victory.

Coach Jim Hart got his biggest all-out effort from 6-5 center, Steve McElyea, who harrassed the Bulldogs offense under the basket with his defelection of shots while being credited with nine assists, 14 rebounds and 18 points, high for both teams. He dumped in key baskets early and late in he game when the Dogs made their threats.

Kirk Stewart was Portageville's top scorer on the evening with 13 points.

Gideon proved its earlier win over the Lilbourn Panthers no fluke and its number too seed deserving as it soundly beat the district's seventh rated quintet, 62-51.

The Bulldogs of coach John Shock took an advantage in every catagory of the game except for mistakes as his team seems to have its stride since the Bloomfield Invitational at Christmas, where it lost to Malden.

Shock's crew had a good eye for the basket during the evening as the team cashed in 80 per cent of its free throws (20 of 25) and warmed the nets with its 60 per cent field shooting (21 of 35) while Lilbourn struggled to fined the range throughout the evening against the tough Bulldog zone defense.

"We haven't played but one good game since Christmas," stated Panther coach Ted Mauk. "Our team looked good against Sikeston, but I think it was just because of the Bulldogs rating among Southeast Missouri teams and it being a large school." Mauk silently relented.

Gideon opened the game on top as Jerry Coleman sank two free throws and quickly moved out after Lilbourn held one point leads three times during the first four minutes of the game, before the Dogs headed for the first quarter break with a 16-10 lead.

Lilbourn never got no closer than six points after the first quarter as Coleman ripped the Panthers man to man defense with his patented fall away jump shot and wheeled around Panther defenders for easy layins, ending the game with 25 points, for game high honors.

The Panthers trailed 48-42 with 5:43 remaining in the game as Larry Wolfe connected on a 20-f oot set shot, but the Lilbourn quintet couldn't make the best of its change to close to within four as Gideon stole the ball after the Panthers took the rebound and headed down floor.

Ruben Marsh, the Panthers big 6-7 center failed to start and didn't see action until the second quarter. He played the final 24 minutes for Lilbourn, scoring 19 points for the teams best effort. The team trailed 16-10 after the first quarter and his appearance seemed to do little to lift the Panthers from that deficit as it was Gideon all the way.

Sikeston Downs Indians; Ray Loveless Undefeated

By TERRY NOWELL
Standard Sportswriter

Sikeston High School Bulldog grapplers growled past the Jackson Indians last night, 35-17, as they took their fourth win of the season.

This marks Sikeston's second consecutive win against Jackson as it swept by the Indians 33-13 in an earlier duel.

Coach John Brooke said the team showed the form tonight which will be a vital asset to the squad in the coming district competition.

Ray Loveless, 120-pound junior, remained undefeated as he fought to a draw against his Jackson opponent. Ray now holds a 4-0-1 slate with two duel meets remaining.

Senior Riley Gross took his ninth victory of the season against one loss, which he suffered during the Parkway battle.

Bulldogs will travel to East Prairie tomorrow afternoon to wrestle the Eagles and return home Monday as they host the undefeated Charleston Blue Jays. Those two meets will end Sikeston's duel meet wrestling season.

Sikeston won both of the junior varsity matches as Randy Reynolds and Larry Johnson pinned their opponents.

Wash. At Cape

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Washington University of St. Louis invades Houck Fieldhouse at 8 Saturday night (Feb. 1) for a non-conference game with hapless Southeast Missouri State.

The Battling Bears will find that Coach Charles Parsley's squad of "10 little Indians" has increased by two. The beginning of the spring semester Wednesday at Southeast Missouri made two more players eligible for varsity competition.

They are Jim Long, a 5-11 guard who transferred from Paducah, Ky., Junior College, and John Stuhlman, a 6-4 sophomore forward from St. Louis who was ineligible the first semester because of scholastic difficulties.

Probably neither Long nor Stuhlman will break into the starting lineup Saturday night, but each is expected to see plenth of action. "They should definitely help us," said Coach Parsley, whose cagers can use any help they can get. Their record is now 3-12 after road loses on Saturday and Monday to Northeast Missouri State.

Washington University, coached by Bob Greenwood, had a losing season last year, as did Cape, but has rebounded in much better fashion than the Indians. The Bears returned their entire team, and four starters are currently averaging in double figures.

Greenwood's club also features one of the smallest guards in college basketball in 5-8 freshman Bruce Holloway from Poplar Bluff. He doesn't shoot often, but is the team's top playmaker.

Southeast Missouri is led in scoring by junior Fred Anderson of St. Louis, is averaging 22.8 points a game. Dan Milligan and Roger Drake, both seniors from Bethalto, Ill., are also averaging in double figures.

Southeast Missouri defeated Washington University last season, 85-63.

Wrestling Playoffs Next Week

The MSHSAA District Wrestling Tournament series opens at sixteen sites across the state next week as some 125 schools battle for the state title, won by McCluer High School in 1968.

District action begins in Kansas City at the Interscholastic League Fieldhouse Monday, while ten other sites have opening matches Thursday and five will begin Friday. Semifinals and finals at Kansas City are scheduled for February 4 and 5, while all other sites will hold their semifinals and finals February 8.

The sites include: Hazelwood; Riverview Gardens; Horton-Watkins (Ladue); St. Louis University High; Principia; St. Louis Roosevelt; Charleston; Springfield Parkview; Mexico; Lexington; Norborne; Savannah; Park Hill; William Chrisman of Independence; Belton and the KC Interscholastic League Fieldhouse.

The winners of the first two places in the district tournament in each weight class will qualify for regional tournament competition. Four regional meets are scheduled for February 14 and 15 at McCluer Nehlville, Excelsior Springs and Odessa.

The first and second place winners in the regional tournament will then qualify for the state event, which will be held on February 21 and 22.

State individual champions will be determined in twelve weight classes. They are: 95, 103, 112, 120, 127, 133, 138, 145, 154, 165 and heavyweight. A team champion will also be crowned.

McCluer captured the team title in 1968, edging Hazelwood 44-42. Oak Park of North Kansas City was third with 36 points.

Wehrli Will Lose Jersey Number 23

COLUMBIA - Something will have to give when Roger Wehrli, the St. Louis Cardinals' first-round draft choice, joins the club next year, -- and it will be Wehrli's collegiate jersey number -- 23.

Trouble is, that Wehrli's all-American predecessor at Mizzou -- halfback Johnny Roland -- has a prior claim on that number. Roland wore 23 for Ol' Mizzou -- and retained it with the Cardinals.

Although the islands are governed effectively, there are two police forces, three sets of laws three currencies, two systems of weights and measures and two national languages — English and French.

Q - I received my tax forms in the mail but my son didn't Why is that? He started working last summer and taxes are being taken out of his was.

A - A tax return is mailed to everyone who filed a return for the previous year. Your son would therefore not receive a tax form if he started working in 1968 as youindicate.

Copies of the 1968 tax forms and instructions are available at local IRS offices as well as many post offices and banks.

Q - If I file my 1968 return by the end of January can I forget about the fourth installment of my estimated tax?

A - You will only have to include in income any increase between the value of the stock at the time your father died and what you sold it for.

The amount of the increase will have to be repoed as a capital gain on Schedule D. However, if the stock decreased in value the loss may be used to reduce any other capital gains you might have to report for 1968. For deails see the instructions on Schedule D.

Q - I got married last year and my wife and I both received 1040 tax packages. If we file a joint return, whose label should be puform mine or hers? TWO MEDALS, the Gallantry Cross with Palm and the Military Merit badge, were presented posthumously, Mr. and Mrs. Max L. Brown, 220 Miller drive, this week for their son, Byron Lea Brown, who was killed in Vietnam Feb. 9, 1968. In making the presentation, Major John Gruner, St. Louis, left, told Mr. and Mrs. Brown they can be proud of Marine Pfc. Brown. "He fought to the end of every mission," Major Gruner said. Standing beside Brown is Sgt. Harry Spiller, recruiter, Cape Girardeau.

Nixon Says Dissent Will Be Heard

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has told some 700 officials charged with carrying out his foreign policy that there is plenty of room in his "Forward Together" administration for any dissenting views they may hold.

"Where there are strong dissenting views on foreign policy, I want these views, too," the President told a gathering of State Department officials Wednesday as he continued a round of get-acquainted visits to Capitol Hill and federal agencies.

Nixon took a slight break from that routine today for two prayer meetings, a session with the Apollo 8 astronauts and a White House dinner with the three moon-trip veterans and their wives.

Nixon held a two-hour session with the National security Council Wednesday in the White House, devoted mainly to a discussion of the nuclear, nonproliferation treaty. But there was no word on when there will be a move toward ratification in the Senate.

Along with visits to the Senate and the State Department, Nixon made one high-level appointment, naming Gerard Smith, a 54-year-old lawyer as director of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency.

Nixon said he was upgrading the job and that Smith, credited by President John F. Kennedy with originating the Washington-Moscow hotline, would have "direct access to the secretary of state and to the President."

Smith has been an atomic energy adviser in three administrations.

At the State Department, Nixon spoke to 700 employes before a two-hour meeting with 30 top policy makers in Secretary of State William Rogers' eighth floor offices.

At the Senate, Nixon had lunch in Minority Leader Everett Dirksen's office with 16 Senate leaders from both parties.

Then he came out on the floor for an ovation from his one-time colleagues and the public galleries. He noted it was his first trip there since he left the Senate as vice president eight years ago.

In a brief speech, Nixon made it clear the executive branch needs the advice as well as consent of the Senate and he would be "most appreciative of getting their views."

Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., said as far as the Democratic side is concerned "we will do everything we can to make you a good President because we feel if you are good, the nation will benefit."

When Polish-born Joseph Conrad, author of "Heart of Darkness," joined the English merchant marine in 1878 he could speak only a few words of English the language of which he became a master, says The World Almanac. It was a strange decision for Conrad to go to sea in that his family was without nautical tradition and his country without a seacoast.

Mail Box

To The Editor:

I just returned from buying a quantity of stamps at the post office. The thought came to me that with all branches of government trying to get more and more tax money and looking for new fields to tax, the post office is a fertile one. A sales tax could be added to postage stamps the same as we now pay on cigarettes, liquor, gasoline, etc. So why not postage stamps? Everyone uses them. The P. O. Wants to discourage use of mail.

The amount of tax would be modest (at first) and should bother few people when you consider they already pay a nickle for a penny postcard. And, after all, it is only money. You could pay the post office a 25-cent copper quarters that are beginning to wear thin and look rather shoody. It might be better to get some postage stamps for them than someday have to turn them in for cost of production which was less than a penny.

Monks differ from friars in that monks ordinarily remain within their monasteries and do their work there, whereas the friar does his work in the world, wherever he is sent.

Goodtime Hour Comedy Not up to Its Music

NEW YORK (AP) — If the quality of its comedy material can ever match the quality of its music, the new "Glen Campbell Goodtime Hour" will be one of the most attractive variety programs in television.

The premiere show of the CBS series opened with a hefty serving of song by Campbell, of course, and along came Bobbie Gentry and John Hartford. Before the 60 minutes had gone by they had covered most of the numbers that made their reputations and then some.

The Smothers Brothers were there—logically since they are not only the producers of the new series but it was from their summer replacement series that Campbell's career took off.

Campbell's attractive singing style and skill on the guitar are especially easy to take. Miss Gentry with her husky, true voice and John Hartford, whose sensitive, pensive face illuminates the sad lyrics of his ballads are interesting to watch and hear.

The studio audience—or maybe it was a laugh track—screamed wildly at the comedy. However, it did seem that there must have been a better way to amuse the audience than to dress Tom Smothers in a cowboy suit and put him astride a real live hippopotamus which he treated like a horse. Or a better way to handle a monologue than to dress Pat Paulsen in an open-fronted shirt, put a guitar in his hands and make him read an over-blown and almost desperate piece about the history of the folk song.

But as long as Campbell and his musical friends are prominently and actively in the program, it will be a good choice for Wednesday nights during the rest of the season.

The appearance of the Smothers Brothers on Campbell's show illustrates one of the curious convictions of producers who book guest stars on television shows. For some reason, they believe unanimously that it is a real treat for viewers to see singers and comedians who have weekly network series of their own as guests on other singers and comedians weekly series.

Thus we encounter Carol Burnett in a Lucy episode, and after awhile there's Lucy on Carol's show. Or Tom and Dickie Smothers show up on "Laughin." And pretty soon Dan Rowan and Dick Martin return the visit. The truth is, it's not much of a treat, and besides, it is bound to lead to over-exposure of a special sort.

Another TV custom which has long since staled is the business of having stars with a show coming up appearing on an assortment of programs on the same network for the sole purpose of plugging their project. The game shows and the early morning and late evening conversation shows are widely used for this purpose.

It seems that at least twice a week Johnny Carson must struggle with some performer awkwardly attempting to sell some TV product. Eydie Gorme was the most recent Carson guest with TV plugs on her mind, but she was better than most because she could at least sing a song or two. Too much of the time, the guest has little of interest to contribute—neither quick wit nor a good anecdote—and the viewer suffers right along with Carson.

Pill Sales Thrive Even In Italy

ROME (AP) — More and more women in Roman Catholic Italy are taking birth control pills, but pharmacists say shame, ignorance and obedience to the Church are still deterrents.

Contraceptive pills were first put on sale in Italy in the fall of 1964. After a slow start, sales hit six million pills in 1966 and doubled the next year, according to the health ministry. Estimates for 1968 put the total at 24 million, taken regularly by 100,000 women, a 100 per cent increase for the second year in a row.

The figures indicate that Pope Paul VI's encyclical renewing the Church's ban on mechanical and chemical forms of birth control may be slowing the progress of the pill in Italy but it hasn't stopped it.

Pharmaceutical industries reported a decline in sales in August, the month after the Pope issued his encyclical, but sales surged upward again in September and kept rising in the months after. Pharmacists say most drug sales declined in August.

Legally, Italians must have a doctor's prescription to purchase the pill because the law requires that it be sold only for medical treatment. Some pharmacists ignore the prescription requirement, while others display more zeal in enforcement than the law requires of them.

In Rome, for instance, some pharmacists are not satisfied with a prescritpion and insist on seeing the buyer's identity papers to make sure the name on the papers matches that on the prescription.

The pill is most popular in the industrial North, where wages are higher and people are better educated. Eighteen per cent of the nation's sales are made in the Milan area and another 13 per cent in Venice. The Rome area is third with 12 per cent of sales, and the island of Sardinia trails with only 1.3 per cent.

Those who buy the pill almost always ask a woman pharmacist for it. Those who live in small towns or villages often go to a city for it, "especially those who are unmarried," a doctor in Milan said.

Family planning experts say that because of the law and traditional Catholic attitudes, the vast majority of Italians do not know exactly how the pill is used and blush at the thought of entering a pharmacy to ask for it.

This is especially true because women must show their own prescriptions. Other contraceptive devices are still more popular than the pill in Italy, and men do most of the buying.

But getting a prescription from a family doctor generally is no problem.

"One hundred thousand women prove that the small revolution of the pill also has arrived in Italy," the Turin newspaper La Stampa commented.

To The Editor:

A comparison between the old and the new morality is quite interesting.

A "token of appreciation" consisting of a vicuna coat was not only the reason for dismissal of a prominent official a few years ago, but almost an excuse to demand a change in government.

Today things are different and are done on a much larger scale - you might say, wholesale. In place of a mere coat, a $1000-a-plate testimonial dinner attended by 500 or more "friends" of the guest is held. Salary increases of $15,000 a year for certain government officials are "recommended" by a committee chaired by a former head of a big utility which is regulated by those who will get the increase. Was discretion the better part of valor in arriving at the decision?

Retirement benefits for the boys and girls formerly on government pay rolls seem to net a retirement benefit which each year pays more than the recipient contributed during his entire working time. The ordinary citizen might be interested in learning the source of such compound interest so he could pass it on to his insurance underwriter. This pension is paid regardless of whether the recipient takes another job, and is not withheld as is the Social Security of ordinary citizens who in their old age are still willing to work.

Wouldn't it be nice if the average citizen had the same basic rights as some others -- beside the one to pay taxes?

C. L. Blanton Jr., Editor
Daily Sikeston Standard

Dear Mr. Blanton:

Sometime ago you had a picture regarding the rioting students of Reed College, Portland, Ore.

To most readers that was just another riot, but to me it brought back memories of how that college got started.

At the early part of the century that campus was the Crystal Springs Jersey cattle farm., owned by Reed and Ladd, of the Tilton Bank of Portland.

In 1904 these men purchased some top Jersey producers at the St. Louis W. lds Fair in St. Louis, bring back several of the top milk producers from a farm in Orfordville, Wisc.

I worked with this here for six years, and one of these cars was shown at the Chicago Fair in 1893.

Mr. Reed decided Portland needed a college, and he decided to give up the dariy cattle business, and donated the ground for a new college. The owners moved the heard to timber land nine miles north of the city, where staves were made and four-foot water pipes brought water down from the mountains for many miles.

Since the manager of the cattle farm retired, I was given the job of caring for the cattle herd.

All timber work was done by hand, and I cut many a cord of wood for $1 per day, and helped build four barns and silos. A few years later Mr. Ladd sold the herd, and the land is now a country golf course.

The timber was all fir, and the stumps would never rot, so we had to use 20 per cent dynamite. The amount of dynamite determined whether the stumps could be moved, and a winch was attached to the roots and pulled by a horse.

When the trees were cleared the land was used to grow Canadian field peas, winter oats and vetch. Corn was grown for silage as the weather would not let it mature enough to crib.

Yours truly,
Walter C. Klein

IF PROPERTY IS TAXED, SUGGESTS PROPERTY VOTE

To the Editor:

The suggestion for a single-house Missouri Legislature with a nominal number of members is at least simpler and perhaps better than two houses, as long as representation has to be on a strict population basis.

If members were elected in odd - numbered years for four-year terms, and half elected each odd - numbered year, we would perhaps get a reasonably balanced representation.

There have been statements that sticks and stones do not warrant any representation.

There have been statements that sticks and stones do not warrant any representation. But while we are considering changing our legislative makeup, why not go a little further and afford some thought to giving property the right to vote on certain economic issues.

If property is asked to pay taxes to support many projects that are okayed because a tax base will pay the bill, how far away is this from the righteousness of one man - one vote?

If your house or property, a railroad or factory or other business is to be subject to a tax, what is wrong with giving them a say so.

Also it might be worthwhile for many communities to exempt some productive business such as a factory from local taxes, on the assumption their main value is to provide employment for local citizens, not to be a tax base.

Vocational Schools Discussed at Matthews

Meeting for the first time in the Matthews School facilities, the Board of Education of New Madrid County R-1 (Enlarged) disposed of the usual routine business and held lengthy discussion on a number of agenda items. Members present were Arvil Adams, A. C. Riley, Tom Maschmeyer, Markus Koch, and Paul Mahar.

Jake Weaks, an officer with he Missouri State Department of Community Affairs, discussed the vocational schools he had recently visited in South Carolina pointing out that this state had $635,000,000 in new industrial construction during 1968. Weaks attributed much of this growth to the fine vocational training available in that state to both adults and public school age citizens. He suggested that the Board visit one of these schools before finalizing a vocational program.

Max Timmons, Superintendent of Schools, gave a report on the progress of the district's application for a vocational school grant with the Economic Development Agency. He reported the initial steps were reported to be in order and there is a general feeling of confidence that the application will be approved and funding made available toward the erection of this facility in the near future.

The Board then adopted a policy concerning free or reduced priced meals in the lunch rooms of the district. This policy is in keeping with a recent State Department of Education ruling and sets the criteria for individuals to qualify for free or reduced priced meals. The policy is being released to all news media as the Department prescribed.

Preliminary budget projection needs were discussed at length, however, all budgetary actions were deferred until such a time when the state participation can be more accurately ascertained. The Board felt that the state is going to have to assume a larger portion of school costs if needed improvements are to be made in the educational programs. It is felt that the Governor's recent recommendation is a step in the right direction.

President Adams suggested that the members of the Board stay well abreast of the developing state school legislation so constructive work can be done on bills that vitally affect this district.

The axis of Central America extends southeast and northwest.

Seniors Order Caps, Gowns

Seniors were measured for caps and gowns Tuesday in physical education classes. This was the first of a number of experiences the seniors will soon undergo.

Height, weight, and cap measurements were recorded by the teachers to be sent to the E.R. Moore Company in Chicago.

Gowns and caps will be navy blue in color, and will be worn by the seniors during graduation services.

Navy blue tassels with the class number, 1969, will be given to seniors as a memento of graduation exercises.

Gowns will be rentedfor $4, and will be returned immediately following commencement ceremony.

Class Ring Deadline Is Tomorrow

Deadline is tomorrow for juniors to order the '70 class ring.

Students who made the final selection were Gary Foote, Eddie Throop, Grady Jones, Carla Chaney, Barbara Culbertson, Christy Crews, and Dan Hazel.

Rings will be made by the Herff-Jones Company, and Charles Brandon of Dexter is the Salesman.

Snow Determines School Holiday

Eight inches of snow fell in the Sikeston area Sunday and classes were dismissed in the public schools Monday.

Roads in the area were generally snow-covered, but most of the highways were clear by Tuesday morning because the rain had fallen Monday night.

Classes resumed Tuesday morning in all of the public and parochial schools in Sikeston and the surrounding area.

This was the largest accumulation of snow since 1957. Seven inches of snow fell in 1967, and in 1960, the region was covered with seven and three-quarter inches.

The snow created hazards for motorists Sunday afternoon and Monday. In the Sikeston area, snowplows were employed in the early afternoon Sunday.

Crew of city workers graded and hauled the truck loads of snow from the downtown area.

Large accumulation of snow caused many students to revert to childhood sports of sledding, snowball fights, and building snowmen. Some, however, were forced to retain their maturity by aiding motorists caught in drifts.

Representatives Present Program At SHS

Sikeston high school science students attended a demonstration of various machines and computers Thursday morning.

Demonstration was given by Dr. Dave Hargis. He demonstrated the use of a telephone that can turn off lights in a house, turn off the oven, or turn on the sprinkler or air conditioner. The new phone will be put into use in the future.

Telephone is pocket-size and may be carried in a purse or pocket. It is now being used in Arizona and New Mexico for local and long distant calls.

A tape of a computer called Chatty Cathy sang and played the music to the song "Daisy."

A business phone that transforms the type on key punch cards into variations of a sound was also shown. Thousands of words are sent over the phone in a matter of seconds. Word variations are received by a phone which transform plain punch cards into identical duplicates of the punch cards which may be thousands of miles away.

Dr. Hargis told the group that in the very near future the dial phones will be changed to key punch. This will save approximately 15 seconds on each phone call made.

Dr. Hargis also stated that research workers are perfecting a computer that analyzes the problem of a caller. Computers gather the information needed from its memory banks and then relays s this to the caller, thus solving the problems.

Dr. Hargis is the representative for the Bell Telephone home office which is in St. Louis.

He has a bachelor of science in physics, a master's degree in history, and an honorary doctrite.

Dennis Barnes, a Sikeston high school graduate, arranged and scheduled the program. Dennis is the brother of junior Bruce Barnes.

Six Choir Members Are To Sing In Area Group

Seniors David Bird RachelArdreyRandy Atwell, Larry McCann, Barbara Armour, and Junior Debbie Collins were recently chosen to participate in the all-district choir.

This is the first year the choir has been organized in this area.

Choir, composed of approximately 80 voices from Southeast Missouri schools, will practice Wednesday, March 12, in Cape Girardeau.

This select group will perform for the opening session of the Southeast Missouri District Teachers Association Thursday morning, March 13.

Try-outs were held in several schools in this area and the choir is composed of students from the entire district.

The first general session of the convention will be held in the Houck Field House on the campus of SEMO State.

Egg breakers, thumb cutters and screen apes are among the thousands of Americans who have odd-sounding jobs. Egg breakers do precisely that in mass-production bakeries. Thumb cutters work in glove factories. Screen apes are workmen who tend the shaking screens that sort newly mined coal.

Students To Represent Chapter At Convention

Four Sikeston high school students were chosen to represent the Veritas Chapter at the National Honor Society Convention in Independence, February 28-March 1.

President Gary Long, Tonja Thompson, Julie Crader, and Phil Matthews will be accompanied by the sponsor Mrs. Catherine Matthews.

Convention will be held at the Van Horn high school and will be attended Honor Society representatives from the entire state.

Representatives will take part in discussion groups and panels. National issues as well as school issues will be discussed and students are urged to take an active part in each.

Plans for the annual induction of new members have been made for Saturday, March 29.

Tonja Thompson, Mike Struwe, Denise Hipes, and Gene Spitzmiller will present the traditional program with speeches on the topics of "leadership, scholarship, service, and character."

The 1880-90 period in the United States was a brilliant decade for inventors. Industry introduced the incandescent lamp, the automobile, the cash register, the trolley car, the pneumatic tire, the dynamo, transparent film, electric welding, the electric furnace, steam turbine and smokeless powder.

Growler Staff To Open Sales For February

"Growler sales will be opened Monday morning and continue through February," said co-editor Andrea Ables.

Staff will open the sales for February to enable students who did not purchase a book in the fall to do so.

Books will not be sold after March because the publisher will be in the process of printing many of the pages.

Paragon Press must know how many copies to print when the cover goes on the press the first of March.

Staff had to select the yearbook royalty in November and the sales closed at that time. This extra month will enable those students who did not buy a book to do so during February.

Price of the book is $5, and the full amount must be paid at the time of purchase.

English Classes Print Literary '69 Anthology

Entries for the second annual edition of the Sikeston high school student anthology may be submitted to students' English teachers until the deadline set by a committee of teachers.

Final deadline will be Friday, Feb. 28, and material may be either prose or poetry suitable for publication.

Work will be selected for publication on the basis of originality, interest, and application of principles of good writing.

Entries must be typed, double-spaced, and on one side of the paper only. Proper margins should be used. The maximum length is four pages, and shorter works are preferred.

On the first line of the entry, the title should be typed in capital letters; on the line beneath should be typed the student's name, a dash, and the class the student is in (freshman, sophomore, junior, or senior). A line should be skipped preceding the composition.

Denise Hipes Is Campus Leader, Barker Staffer

Denise has been a member of the Girl Scouts for 11 years and is now serving as public relations aide for the Cotton Boll Council.

Denise was one of five Sikeston Representatives at Girls State last summer and was elected mayor of her city and county superintendent of schools.

Denise plans to attend Southeast Missouri State College and major in elementary education, with a minor in library science.

Her hobbies include colllecting postcards and making colleges, which she offten presents to presents to friends. She enjoys water skiing and a good game of tennis.

Denise is of French and German descent, a fact that will surprise the many students who believe her to be an Indian.

She resides with her parents at 735 Goodhope with her parents, her brothers, Blaine and Bryon, and her poodle, Cognac.

Senior Denise Hipes serves duo-capacities in the journalism department as feature editor of the Barker and class editor of the Growler. Denise displays many other talents in addition to her journalistic aptitudes.

Denise has been a member of the top 10 per cent of her class since the eighth grade and was inducted into the National Honor Society her sophomore year.

Members of the society elected her to be one of the speakers at the annual candlelight induction service, with the topic of "character."

Denise also displays musical talents through her participation in concert choir VI, 7:30 band, and the clarinet quartet.

Last spring, Denise was elected secretary of the Red Peppers. She was named one of the "peppy Red Peppers" for the first game at the Poplar Bluff Invitational Basketball Tournament.

Beth Montgomery, Tonja Thompson, Linda Powell, Phyllis Ford, Susan Dawson, Barbara Faulkner, Debbie Schaffer, Laura Horne, Denise Hipes, Nancy Turner, and Denise Lewis were chosen as outstanding Red Peppers for the opening night of the Poplar Bluff Tournament Monday.

Girls showed an amazing amount of spirit and enthusiasm throughout the game and should be commended on their active support of the Bulldogs.

Mail Load Picks up In Loveland

LOVELAND, Colo. (AP) — With Valentine's Day only about two weeks away, postmaster Fred Brewer is getting ready to play Cupid again.

Each year, an estimated 100,000 valentines are processed by Brewer and his staff for people in all 50 states and many foreign countries who want their messages of love to carry the postmark of this fittingly named town.

Brewer himself hand cancels about 8,000 valentines, including the ones for his wife and five grandchildren.

In addition to the "Loveland" postmark, cards and letters sent to this city of 18,500 for remailing are stamped with a bare-bottomed Cupid in a cowboy hat and a verse. This year's reads, "The heart-L brand reaches far throughout the land."

The mailing campaign for the Feb. 14 hearts and flowers day was first thought of in 1947. Anyone who wants the special postmark simply stamps and addresses his valentine as usual, encloses it in another envelope and mails it to Loveland for redistribution.

Getting into the spirit of things, the Chamber of Commerce has, for the past eight years, chosen as "Miss Loveland Valentine" from among the community's high school seniors.

There are three other Lovelands in the postal guide—in Ohio, Oklahoma and Iowa. None of them, howeger, gets more than a few cards for remailing.

Other romantics can choose from Loving or Lovelady in Texas; Lovely, Okla.; Lovelock, Nev.; Loves Park, Ill.; or Love Valley, N.C.

Lumber Company Leaves Sikeston For Memphis

50 years ago
January 31, 1919

The Baker-Matthews Lumber Co., will be moved from Sikeston to Memphis, Tenn., sometime this week, according to present plans. The going of this company takes from Sikeston the second largest business concern in Southeast Missouri, this firm ranking next in size to the Scott County Milling Co. The Baker-Matthews Lumber Co., was organized in 1916, as a wholesale lumber business and is the largest in this section of the state. For some months it has been practically decided to consolidate the Sikeston offices with those in Memphis, principally because the southern offices were in closer touch with lumber producing territory.

Beginning Monday morning, the management of the Scott-Madrid Motor Co., in Ithis city, changed from A.E. Hunze to L.S. Karren, formerly of Cape Girardeau. Mr. Hunze will be the salesman for the garage, selling Fordson tractors and automobiles.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Roy Oliver, on January 25, an eleven pound boy.

Jim Limbaugh arrived home Monday morning from Camp Funston, Kas., having been mustered out of the army at that camp.

What we wish most for now is more light--sunshine to gladden our hearts and dry up the water. With sunshine the flu would soon disappear and the gloom generally disperse. It has been several months since a solid week of sunshine has visited this section. No wonder the depressed looks and the depressed feelings of every other many you meet.

The editor and wife extend a hearty welcome to another granddaughter who arrived Saturday. She was born to MMr. and Mrs. Harry Blanton at St. Francis Hospital in Cape Girardeau. Mother and babe doing nicely.

Raymond Bailey of Shelbina is expected in Sikeston this afternoon to assume employment in the Standard mechanical department.

Mrs. Reba Buckles of Sikeston has taken a position as secretary of the Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau. She has been working at the institution during the past week and will take the place of Miss Bess Dudley of Cape.

A spark from a welding torch that dropped into a pool of gasoline, caused by a carburator overflow, resulted in a blaze Saturday morning that swept through the maintenance building and blacksmith shop of the State Highway Department, damaging road apparatus and charring the entire interior.

An electricity rate schedule for the state of Missouri, compiled and just released by the Federal Power Commission, shows that Sikeston users' bills are approximately the 20th lowest in the list of 60 cities of 2,500 to 10,000 population.

The Rev. Jesse E. Smith will arrive Wednesday to take up his duties as pastor of the First Assembly of God Church in Sikeston.

Old man weather, who has been busying himself with giving other parts of the nation and the state a hard time of it for the past month turned his attention to Southeast Missouri last night. The result was a two-inch snowfall in the Sikeston area coupled with a temperature of 11 degrees early this morning.

Miss Patricia Eileen Caldwell of Columbia and George Edward Tope, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tope, sr., were married January 28 at the home of the bride's parents, 719 Gentry Place in Columbia.

Hospital notes. Mr. and Mrs. Glen Jones of Sikeston have a baby son born January 28 at the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gage of Sikeston have a baby daughter born on the 28th.

Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Felkerson of Gray Ridge have a daughter born on the 28th.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Anderson of Oran have a girl born on the 29th.

The Sikeston Bulldogs crushed Charleston 57 to 32 Friday night to delight a crowd estimated at 700 fans who turned out to watch their first game at the Armory.

It's hard to believe that gasoline was once poured into streams as a dangerous by-product of kerosene. This prevailed until the automobile with its internal combustion engine arrived on the scene to consume this waste product. You can trace the history of gasoline and gasoline pumps at the Harold Warp Pioneer Village at Minden, Nebraska.

If You Were the Judge

Nude Motel Guest Sues Owner

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Joan registered at a motor court and ended up in a civil court. During the night, the motel mysteriously caught fire. Jumping out of bed, Joan hastily climbed through a window and, for a half hour thereafter, stood around in her unmentionables, was on his night 'able and now they can't find it.

When the smoke finally cleared away, Joan sued the owner of he motel for her harrowing and embarrassed experience as well as or the loss of all her clothing and other personal belongings consumed by the fire.

"The only thing I was able to save," Joan told the judge, "was myself. Everything else was destroyed including my composure with exposure.' count your teeth. Joyce is either a kleptomaniac or a thief, probably the latter, since start the blaze and neither did any of my employees. If she's burned up, think of my poor motel!"

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you require the motel owner to pay Joan for her embarrassment? I took off the beads and it looks great. The only thing is, Ann, the sweater is cut sort responsible for the losses of a guest arising out of a fire where the fire was not the result of any negligence on his part or on the part of any of his employees.

(Based upon a 1963 Nevada Supreme Court Decision)

The fee of $1.00 per year is the charge to be paid for membership.

It was decided to have an Easter Bake Sale April 5th next.

Place for the Bake Sale will be announced later.

Each member is requested to bring a visitor to the next meeting. The visitations will be assured of a happy time.

Refreshments consisted of Oat meal and chocolate cake and coffee.

CHARLESTON — The Chamber of Commerce will kick off its 1969 membership drive with a fried chicken dinner Wednesday night for all 1968 members and prospective new members, Chamber President Marion Waggener announced today.

Waggener promised an interesting program, including reports of the industrial development committee; Charles Brink, chairman of the airport committee; Bob Coon, chairman of the community betterment committee; Al Friedman, chairman of the retail merchants' committee; David Rolwing, chairman of the agriculture committee; and Dr. T. P. Fenton, who will outline his plans for a clinic and hospital.

Ponder is expected to talk about the industrial prospects currently considering locating in Charleston; Brink will tell what his group is doing to promote an FAA-approved airport in Charleston; Friedman will discuss retail promotion plans for 1969; and Rolwing will discuss plans for a greatly - expanded soybean yield contest and other agricultural promotions. Coon's group is expected to reveal its plans for making Charleston a 5-Star community betterment city.

The dinner will be held at 6:30 p.m. at the Knights of Columbus Hall, and tickets will cost $1.50 each.

The president said the Chamber has "some real big plans for Charleston this year," and "we need the support of every citizen of the town in order to carry those plans through to success."

The committee on membership and finance, with Art Wallhausen Jr. as chairman, will be on hand to enroll anyone who wishes to join the Chamber of Commerce and help the organization with its work of community improvement.

"Remember," Waggener said, "you do not have to be a member of the Chamber of Commerce to attend this chicken dinner. Everyone is invited."

Two Bluff Men Indicted in Fraud Case

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Two officers of a defunct Poplar Bluff, Mo., brokerage firm were indicted by a federal grand jury Thursday for alleged fraud and failure to report to a federal agency.

Judson L. Stokely, president, and Robert E. Singelton, vice president, of Investors Securities Associates were named in the indictment.

U.S. Atty. Veryl Riddle said the two men were accused of obtaining more than $250,000 from 11 customers for stock the customers never received.

Eleven counts of the indictment alleged failure to deliver the securities. The 12th count charges that the firm failed to submit reports to the Federal Securities and Exchange Commission.

The transactions involved in the indictment were said to have occurred between June 1, 1966, and July 17, 1967.

The indictment alleged the brokerage firm was insolvent as of Dec. 31, 1966, but officers certified the firm's assets included 2,000 shares of stock, which it did not own.

Conviction of failure to deliver securities is punishable by a maximum fine of $5,000 and five years in prison. The penalty for conviction for failure to file reports with the SEC is a maximum $10,000 fine and two years in prison.
